ANNUAL REPORT

ON THE

ADMINISTRATION OF THE MADRAS PRESIDENCY

DURING THE YEAR 1866-67.

SECTION I.—EXECUTIVE GOVERNMENT.

No change took place in the personnel of the Executive Government during the year under review.

SECTION II.—LEGISLATIVE.

2. Mr. John Young was appointed an additional Member of the Council for making Laws and Regulations, and took his seat on the 3rd July 1866. The Honorable Messrs. A. J. Arbuthnot and R. S. Ellis, C. B., were re-appointed as additional Members.

3 Act No. IV of 1866, or an Act "to exempt enfranchised "Village or other Service Inams, whether Revenue or Police, from the "operation of Regulation VI of 1831," received the assent of the Governor General on the 24th September 1866. This Act was passed with the object of enabling the Government to relieve from the conditions of service imposed by Regulation VI of 1831, all rent-free Inam lands in those districts in which it may be deemed expedient to remunerate the village servants in other ways than by grants of land, and to place these Inams in the same position as other landed property in regard to fuller succession and transmission.

Act No. V of 1866, being an Act "to regulate the manner of "engaging and contracting with Native inhabitants within any of the "districts subject to the Government of Fort St. George, for labor to "be performed in any part of India beyond the territorial limits of the "Presidency of Madras," received the assent of the Governor General on the 6th October 1866. The necessity for legislative action in this matter arose from the circumstance of a large number of coolies having been recruited at Madras in 1865 for employment in the Tea districts of Bengal, and induced to leave their homes upon statements relating to their pay which were not realized. This Act is designed to prevent the recurrence of the irregularities which took place on that occasion. It places the emigration of coolies from this Presidency to other parts of India under restrictions similar to those imposed on emigration to the British Colonies by Act XIII of 1864, and on the recruitment of laborers for the Bengal Tea districts by Bengal Act III of 1863.

ACTS PASSED.

Act No. VI of 1866, or an Act "for repealing Madras Act V of "1862 and for regulating the Bank of Madras," received the Governor General's assent on the 30th October 1866. The main object of this Act is to provide for the increase of the capital of the Bank from sixty lacs, to which sum it was limited by Madras Act V of 1862, to one crore and twenty lacs, and for the extension of the operations of the Bank—which by that Act were restricted to the territories of British India—to Native States and Foreign Dependencies in India, such as Travancore, Cochin, Mysore, and Hyderabad, and the French Settlement of Pondicherry, and to Ceylon. In regard to the management and regulation of the Bank in other respects, the Act re-enacts the provisions of Madras Act V of 1862, with certain amendments and modifications.

Act No. I of 1867, or an Act "to shorten the language used in "Acts of the Governor of Fort St. George in Council, and to make "certain provisions relating thereto," received the assent of the Governor General on the 21st March 1867. This Act defines once for all certain terms usually employed in the enactments of the Local Legislature, obviating thereby the necessity of repeating the definition of those terms in every Act in which they may occur. It also contains certain clauses, having the same object, to shorten and facilitate the machinery of legislation.

Bill passed, but not assented to.

4. The Bill which was passed by the Council in March 1866, "to amend the law relating to the custody of prisoners within the "local limits of the original jurisdiction of Her Majesty's High Court "of Judicature at Madras," was vetoed by the Governor General for the following reasons:—

First.—"Because it professes to repeal Sections 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, "and 62 of Act XVIII of 1862, which is an Act of the Council of the "Governor General, passed since the Indian Councils' Act, and to "repeal which, or any portion of which, is beyond the power of the "Council of the Governor of Fort St. George," and Second.—"Because since this Bill passed the Council of the "Governor of Fort St. George, Act XII of 1867 has passed the Council "of the Governor General, which does all that it was proposed to do "by the present Bill, which is therefore no longer necessary."

Bills pending before the Council.

5. Lists of Bills pending before the Council at the close of the year, and of Petitions disposed of during the year, will be found in the Appendix.

SECTION III.—JUDICIAL.

GENERAL.

Abolition of District Moonsiffs' Courts.

6. Eleven District Moonsiffs' Courts were abolished in the course of the year in the districts below noted:—

|---|---|
| Berhampore | 1 |
| Calicut | 2 |
| Coimbatore | 1 |
| Mangalore | 2 |
| Rajahmundry | 1 |
| Tellicherry | 2 |
| Tanjore | 1 |
| Vizagapatam | 1 |

Temporary establishment of a Principal Sudder Ameen's Court at Bellary.

7. The temporary Principal Sudder Ameen's Court at Chittoor, the establishment of which was noticed in the last Report, having cleared off the arrears on the file of the Civil Court of that zillah, was removed to Bellary, where the arrears of appeal suits were large, and the Criminal work was unusually heavy.

Judge of Court of Small Causes at Madura invested with the powers of a Principal Sudder Ameen.

8. Towards the end of the year, the Judge of the Court of Small Causes at Madura was invested with the powers of a Principal Sudder Ameen, to enable him to aid the Civil Judge and Principal Sudder Ameen of that zillah to dispose of the heavy arrears of Civil business, both original and appellate, which had accumulated in their respective Courts. This arrangement was sanctioned on the understanding, that the additional business to be assigned to the Judge of the Court of Small Causes was not to be more than he could perform without prejudice to his proper duties as a Judge of Small Causes.

Certain Principal Sudder Ameens and Judges of the Court of Small Causes relieved of Criminal work.

9. With the view also of facilitating the disposal of the arrears of Civil business pending before the Principal Sudder Ameens of the zillahs noted in the margin, and the Judges of the Courts of Small Causes at Combaconum, Negapatam, Cuddalore, and Vellore, who have been severally invested with the powers of a Principal Sudder Ameen, the High Court directed, under Section 356 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, that no more Criminal cases should be committed to those officers.

GENERAL.

Extension of the jurisdiction of the Civil and Session Court at Berhampore.

10. The jurisdiction of the Civil and Session Court at Berhampore has been extended to that part of the talook of Goomsoor which is below the ghauts, and which hitherto has been under the special jurisdiction of the Agent to the Governor of Fort St. George in Ganjam The jurisdiction of the latter officer is now confined to the Hill tracts.

Operations of the Whipping Act.

11. During the year under review, 4,915 persons were punished with whipping under Act VI of 1864, viz, 646 with a rattan, and 4,269 with a cat-o'-nine tails.

The following were the offences of which the above prisoners were convicted :—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Chapter V. | Abetment ... ... ... ... ... | 2 |
| XI. | Escape ... ... ... ... ... | 1 |
| XII. | Offences relating to coins .. ... ... | 2 |
| XIV. | Nuisances ... ... ... ... ... | 3 |
| XVI. | Attempt at suicide ... ... ... | 1 |
| XVII. | Theft ... ... ... ... ... | 3,264 |
| „ | Robbery and Dacoity ... ... ... | 22 |
| „ | Misappropriation ... ... ... ... | 4 |
| „ | Receiving and possessing stolen property | 114 |
| „ | Cheating ... ... ... ... ... | 3 |
| „ | Mischief ... ... ... ... ... | 12 |
| „ | House-breaking ... ... ... ... | 1,484 |
| XXIII. | Attempt to commit offences ... ... | 3 |

The number of prisoners whipped during the year is no less than 1,907 in excess of the number of those so punished in the previous year, owing, probably, to the great scarcity which has prevailed in many parts of the Presidency. The majority of the judicial officers are of opinion that the Act has worked very satisfactorily during the year under review.

12. The following is a resumé of the leading facts connected with the working of the system of Registration of Assurances.

15. Up to the 1st of March last, the Registrars and Sub-Registrars in the Mofussil were paid by commission on the fees collected. The commission drawn by the Registrars was at the rate of 25 per cent. on all fees up to Rupees 600 per mensem, and at ten per cent. on any sum above that amount. Under orders from the Government of India, fixed salaries, ranging from Rupees 75 to Rupees 150 per mensem, have now been substituted for the commission. The Sub-Registrars are still remunerated by commission at the rate of fifty per cent. on the collections. The average commission drawn by these Officers was Mode of remunerating Registrars and Sub-Registrars.

REGISTRATION OF ASSURANCES.

Rupees 30-5-4 per mensem, against Rupees 16-14-5 per mensem, the average amount drawn in the previous year.

Decrease of voluntarily registered deeds.

17. There has been a decrease in the number of deeds voluntarily registered. This is attributable partly to the fact that the provisions of the law are better understood than they were, and partly to the greater expense which, under the present scale of fees, attends the registration of instruments of small value.

Refusals to register.

18. Under Act XVI of 1864, there was no return of refusals to register, unless an appeal was preferred. The number of refusals recorded during the year under review was 1,056. Appeals were preferred to the Registrars in 161 cases, in twenty-five of which the Registrars ordered registration, and refused to order it in 136 cases. The actual number of instruments registered under the orders of the Registrars was twenty, and under the orders of the Courts ninety-seven.

Wills and authorities to adopt.

19. The number of sealed covers deposited during the year was thirty-eight, of these thirty-seven purported to contain Wills, and one an authority to adopt. The number of such deeds presented open was seventy-one, of which all but one were Wills. The registration of this class of instruments is chiefly confined to the Tamil Districts.

The number of instruments specially registered was 7,964, against 12,715 in the previous year. The decrease is attributable to the enhanced cost of special registration in the case of instruments of small value. REGISTRATION OF ASSURANCES.

20. The number of instruments presented for registration in a language not understood by the Registering Officer and accompanied by translations was 106. Translations.

21. The number of registrations on payment of a penalty was 236. Penalties.

22. The number of special Powers of Attorney attested during the year was 1,484, and of general powers 474. Powers of Attorney.

23. There were 1,478 attendances at private residences by the Registrars and Sub-Registrars in person, and 190 by persons deputed under a Commission. Attendances at private residences.

24. The number of searches was 638, and of copies and extracts granted 1,479. The General Registry Office and the Mofussil Registry Offices are but little resorted to for the purposes of search. Searches, Copies, and extracts.

25. Sixty Memoranda of decrees affecting registered instruments were received from the Courts. Some instruments were declared invalid, but no case has yet occurred of a registered instrument being declared a forgery. Memorandum of Decrees under Section 41 of Act XX of 1866.

26. The Registrar General made three tours of inspection during the year, and was absent altogether 140 days, during which he inspected seven Registry Offices and eighty-one Sub-Registry Offices. Three of the former and six of the latter had been visited by him before. His remarks on the result of his inspections and on the working of Act XX of 1866 are subjoined. Inspection of Registry and Sub Registry Offices.

"On the whole, most of the Sub-Registry Offices were in better order than those which I visited last year, but a great many were in a very unsatisfactory condition. The introduction of the new Act had been productive, as was perhaps to be expected, of some new blunders. There was hardly a single office in which any of the instruments registered contained such a description of the immoveable property referred to as is prescribed in Section 21. Double registrations of instruments, affecting both moveable and immoveable property, were still general, although such registrations have ceased under Act XX of 1866. The endorsements; in many instances, did not contain the particulars prescribed, even the signature of the party admitting execution, as well as of the Registering Officer himself being sometimes omitted. The new system of indexing had given rise to many mistakes. In one instance, there were no Indexes in the office, the Sub-Registrar having kept no originals, although he had forwarded what purported to be copies of his Indexes to be filed in the offices of the Registrar and Registrar General. In some offices nearly every instrument presented had been specially registered, without any reference to the fact whether it was or was not an obligation for the payment of money, the object in view having been apparently to obtain the double fees allowed for special registration. In other cases, instruments had been admitted to special registration, but the agreement for special registration had not been recorded. In a number of offices, the provision of Article 2 of the table of fees, which allows an additional fee for registering instruments of which the value does not exceed Rupees 100, when such instruments contain more than 300 words, had been extended to all instruments. Several Sub-Registrars had taken on themselves to register instruments presented after the prescribed time, on payment of a penalty, without reference to the Registrar ; although that Officer's previous sanction is required under Section 24. In one district, a Circular had been issued by the Registrar, authorizing the registration of all instruments presented within twelve months from any date of execution anterior to the 1st May 1866, on the supposition that Section 100, which has reference only to certain territories, in which the old Registration Act has never been in force, was applicable to the Madras Presidency. Notwithstanding these and other similar blunders, it is apparent that some improvement is taking place, and measures have been recently taken to ensure more local supervision of these offices. At the beginning of the year, I suggested that the Deputy Collectors, when holding the office of Registrar, should be allowed to visit the Sub-Registry offices under them once a year, which could be done by going out into the district once a month for two or three days ; that the Registrar of Tellicherry, who is a Principal Sudder Ameen, should inspect the offices under him during the annual adjournment of the Court, or if necessary at other times, with the previous permission of the Civil Judge ; and that the Registrar of Tranquebar, who has no other official duties, should inspect his offices at such times as might be most convenient to himself. These proposals were not sanctioned. The Government considered that the Deputy Collectors had too much to do to be able to leave their stations, and therefore determined, that the offices not only of the Sub-Registrars, but also of the Mofussil Registrars should be inspected twice a year by the Sub-Collectors and Assistant Collectors. A rule to that effect, in modification of the old Rule 130, was accordingly published on the 21st November, and soon afterwards the Inspecting Officers were furnished with a Memorandum from my office, containing information and instructions regarding the points requiring their special attention. The total number of offices inspected by the Collectors and their Assistants up to the end of the official year was thirty.

Working of Act XX of 1866.

The working of Act XX of 1866 has been, on the whole, satisfactory, but some of its provisions have given rise to complaints, and others are attended with doubts, which are not yet satisfactorily solved. The public view with great disfavour the stringent, though, perhaps, wholesome, provisions of Section 21, which enforces a somewhat minute description of parcels in instruments relating to immoveable property, and although Rule 59 was prepared with the special view of meeting the difficulties, which I foresaw this section would occasion, there is no doubt that its provisions have, in many instances, occasioned delay and expense. A new class of questions has arisen as to the course to be pursued when the executing parties are unwilling to give effect to the registration of instruments executed by them. One of the main features of the new Act is, that it professes to enforce the attendance of these parties, but cases have occurred in which such persons, when summoned, have appeared and admitted the execution of the instrument, and then refused to sign the endorsement. The Acting Advocate General is of opinion that when this occurs, the only course open is to refuse to register. In several such cases the Courts have ordered registration. In one instance, the Civil Judge of Salem remarked, that the Registering Officer would have exercised a wise discretion if he had registered the instrument without the signature of the recusant party. On the other hand, the Acting Chief Justice, in a similar case, simply ordered registration, but expressed no opinion as to whether the Registrar of Madras was right or wrong in refusing to register. Again, Section 37 of the Act prescribes, that an executing party may be called on to appear before the Registering Officer by a summons, which is to be issued by the Revenue Officer in whose jurisdiction the person is, and Section 40 seems to imply that the attendance of the person so summoned may, if necessary, be enforced under Section 168 of Act VIII of 1859. The term Revenue Officer is so vague, that it seems uncertain whether it means the Collector only, or whether it includes his Covenanted Assistants, or whether it extends to Tahsildars and Deputy Tahsildars. Some Tahsildars are doubtful whether they ought to issue such Summonses, because the High Court of this Presidency has ruled (vide page 2 of tabular statement containing Rulings of 1864) that a Tahsildar, as a Revenue Officer, is not legally competent to issue a Summons at all, and that disobedience to such Summons is not punishable under Section 174 of the Penal Code. Difficulties have also arisen as to what is to be done when the Summons is disobeyed A case has occurred in which a person residing at Madras disobeyed a Summons issued through the Deputy Collector, and on the 15th November, the Acting Advocate General furnished that Officer with the following opinion, which is at variance with one previously given to me (vide C. O. No. 10 of 1866) and with Bengal Rule 36:—'The difficulties suggested by these repeated references are so great, and the want of machinery on the part of the Revenue Officer to do any substantive act so complete, that I am inclined to re-consider my original opinion. I think, on the whole, that the only safe view to act upon, is to hold that a Revenue Officer can do nothing except serve process upon a person who has executed a document which requires registration. If he refused to attend, he may be indicted under the Penal Code. But I see no mode by which he can be taken in custody, or otherwise, to the place where his attendance is required. If he can be apprehended under Section 168 of Act VIII of 1859, his property might also be sold. But I certainly do not see my way to any such process.' These difficulties seem peculiar to Madras. In Bombay, the Registrar General informs me, that Warrants have been issued and enforced by Revenue Officers in several districts; that the recusant parties have been in several cases tried, and fined by the Magistrates under Section 174 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the Collector of Bombay has issued several Warrants within the original jurisdiction of the High Court."

Number of Suits.

27. There remained 62,509 Original Suits undecided at the close of 1865; 1,89,691 were instituted in 1866; and 1,919 were remanded or re-admitted. The total number of suits for the year was, therefore, 2,54,119, or 2,026 more than the number of those of 1865.

1,89,992 suits, or 78 per cent. of the whole number were disposed of, and 63,053 remained undecided at the close of the year; and there was, therefore, a slight increase both in the number of suits disposed of(a) and in the number of those pending undecided(b) as compared with the numbers of the previous year.

The average periods during which suits remained on the files of the Lower Courts were severally as follows, viz :—

Appeals pending, instituted, and disposed of by Lower Appellate Courts.

28. The appeal suits brought before Courts subordinate to the High Court in the course of the year, together with those which were pending at the close of 1865, amounted in all to 16,475. Of these, 9,369 were disposed of as shewn below, and 7,106, of the value of Rupees 20,19,733, were left undetermined at the close of the year; 2,022, or twenty-one per cent., were decreed on the merits in favor of appellants, and 2,943, or thirty-one per cent., for respondents; 298 were remanded to Lower Courts; 233 dismissed for default; 267 adjusted or withdrawn; and 3,606 were disposed of in other ways. The average duration of appeal suits was one year and eighteen days before the Civil Judges, eleven months and twenty-two days before the Principal Sudder Ameens, and ten months and five days before the Judges of Small Cause Courts vested with the powers of a Principal Sudder Ameen. 72,849 applications for execution of decrees, and 1,52,970 petitions of a miscellaneous character, were also disposed of by the Lower Courts; and there remained undisposed of 12,235 of the former, and 3,013 of the latter.

Suits in the High Court, Original Side.

29. On the Original Side of the High Court, besides 100 suits that were pending on the 31st December 1865, 433 were instituted. Of these 174 were disposed of on their merits at the first hearing, and 118 at the hearing; thirty-nine were dismissed for default, sixteen were withdrawn with leave to bring fresh suits, and 102 absolutely. Ten petitions for leave to sue "in formâ pauperis," seven appeal cases, five special cases from the Madras Court of Small Causes, and one special case from the Town Police Court were also disposed of; and there were in addition twelve Plea side actions, remaining from the late Supreme Court, heard and determined. Thus, on the 31st December 1866, there were eighty-four suits pending under the Procedure Code.

Appellate Side.

30. At the close of 1865, there were pending before the High Court in its Appellate Jurisdiction, forty-eight Regular and 273 Special Appeals, and ninety-four Regular and 566 Special Appeals were received in 1866, altogether there was a total of 142 Regular and 839 Special Appeals pending and instituted. As compared with the previous year, there was an increase of seven Regular and a decrease of ninety-five Special Appeals(a) in the number newly instituted. 111 Regular and 660 Special Appeals were disposed of; and there remained on the file at the close of the year thirty-one Regular and 179 Special Appeals. Of which only two Regular and three Special Appeals were filed previous to 1866.

The average duration of Appeal Suits disposed of was three months and one day, and the total value of the Appeal Suits pending at the close of the year was Rupees 18,37,659.

Of 326 Civil Petitions brought before the High Court, 271 were disposed of as follows, viz. :—

Twenty-five cases were referred for the Judgment of the High Court, under Section 22, Act XI of 1865, and Section 28, Act XXIII of 1861, of these twenty-one were disposed of within the year.

The High Court also disposed of 196 of the 215 Criminal Petitions brought before it in the following manner, viz :—

Fifty-three references were made to the High Court under Section 434 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The sentence or order of the Lower Courts was confirmed in twelve instances, reversed in thirty-one, modified or amended in five, and in the remaining five there was no error on a point of law to justify the High Court's interference.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Offences committed and dealt with by Courts

31. The number of offences reported and complained of, under all Penal Laws, during the year, was 1,47,291; 318,522 persons were believed to have been concerned in, or were charged with, offences. 97,757 cases, or 66·4 per cent, were brought to trial, and 188,854 persons were arrested or summoned to answer accusations. In 77,449 or 79·2 per cent., of the cases tried, 131,252 persons were convicted; and 25,196 cases, or 17·1 per cent., of all charges preferred went by default, were withdrawn, or were otherwise disposed of.

The property lost by all offences against property was valued at Rupees 13,27,022, of which Rupees 3,14,242, or 24·6 per cent., was recovered, against 20·2 per cent. recovered in 1865-66.

There was an increase of 7·7 per cent. as compared with the previous year in the total number of offences and charges preferred, viz., 6·7 per cent. under the Penal Code, and 8·4 per cent. under Special Laws. The increase was chiefly due to the large increase of offences against property without violence, and to increased action on the part of Heads of villages under Special Laws in regard to petty offences.

Of 188,854 persons arrested and proceeded against, during the year under review, 69·4 per cent. were punished, against 66·3 per cent. punished in 1865-66.

Prevalence of distress and increase of crime.

32. The distress consequent on the prevalence of high prices during the latter part of the year 1866 naturally produced an increase of crime, and in September grain riots occurred in the Presidency Town, which for two days caused considerable uneasiness. The riots were, however, promptly repressed, and no further disturbances took place.

European Vagrancy

33. It is satisfactory to remark that only 197 Europeans were convicted by the various Courts during the year under review, against 319 in 1865-66. European vagrancy, to which allusion was made in last year's Report, has increased. A Committee has been formed at the Presidency with a view to devising some means of checking it. CRIMINAL JUSTICE

34. Under the Penal Code 79,414 offences were committed and charges preferred; 42,069 cases, or 52·9 per cent., involving 96,414 persons, were judicially disposed of. Convictions were recorded in 29,948 cases (or seventy-one per cent. of all cases tried), against 56,931 persons tried. Offences under the Penal Code.

35. Offences under the Penal Code are divided into seven classes, which are briefly reviewed below.

36. In offences against the person, 52,714 persons were concerned in 20,969 cases; 19,325 cases, or 92 per cent. of all charges of offences against the person which were entertained by the Magistracy during the year, consisted of charges of petty hurt, assault, and wrongful restraint, preferred against 48,763 persons; forty-four per cent. of these petty charges were allowed to go by default, or were withdrawn, and convictions were recorded in 6,418 cases only. Offences against the person.

37. Offences against property, with violence, include robbery, dacoity, and house-breaking. Owing to the prevalence of distress and famine during the past year, there was a considerable increase in this class of offences: but the increase was more than met by improved detection, 35·4 per cent. of all cases being brought to trial against 27·1 per cent. in 1865, and convictions being obtained in 28·8 per cent. of all offences against 18 1 per cent. in 1865. 11,483 offences under this head are reported, involving 48,334 persons, with an alleged loss of property valued at 6,68,674 Rupees. 4,076 cases were tried, and in 3,237 cases, 6,534 persons were punished. Offences against property.

38. Of the 1,130 robberies reported, 162, or fourteen per cent. only were committed in villages and houses, the rest being committed in fields, sheep-pens, and thoroughfares. The increase in the latter kind of offence being accounted for by the prevalent distress, the object of the offenders being simply to obtain food: the returns shew that this class of offences increased in almost exact proportion to the greater prevalence of distress in the localities where they occurred. In North and South Malabar and Canara, there were in all only thirty-one cases of robbery; in the Northern Range there was a decrease, and in the Western and Southern Districts there was no inreacse of this offence. The increase was confined to the three districts of the Central Range, where violent crime rose from 384 to 604 cases. In North Arcot there Robbery.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

were 148 cases, and in Bellary 201; of the latter, however, ten only were serious.

In Ganjam, there were singularly few robberies, considering the distress which prevailed; there were only forty-eight cases, but there was a considerable increase in the number of cases of house-breaking unattended with aggravating circumstances.

Detection of robberies rose from 19·4 per cent. in 1865, to 24·6 per cent. during the year under review; detection of this class of offences was best in the Western, worst in the Southern Range. The Police were successful in 26·2 per cent. of cases of grave crimes of robbery in houses and on highways. The proportion of convictions to offences also rose, to 44·4 per cent. to every offence, against 35·2 per cent. in 1865.

Dacoity.

39. There was an increase of ordinary dacoity throughout the Presidency: there having been 1,025 cases in 1866-67, against 571 in 1865-66; but the increase was almost entirely confined to Bellary, where there were 355 cases during the past year against 104 in 1865.

There was a slight increase in Kurnool, Cuddapah, North Arcot, and Madras, and a considerable increase in South Arcot, Madura, Salem, and Coimbatore. The per-centage of cases brought to justice declined from 27·6 per cent. in 1865, to 23·5 in 1866-67, but was well in advance of other previous years. The most serious falling off in detection occurred in Ganjam. 36·9 per cent. of all dacoities were committed in houses in 1866-67, against 33·6 per cent. in 1865; the rest were in fields and thoroughfares.

Under the head of dacoity is included torch-light gang robbery, a most serious form of crime; there was, however, no general increase of gang robbery throughout the Presidency. In Bellary, where the increase was local and exceptional, the number of cases during the past year is below the average of other previous years; in every other district this crime was held well in check. In the Districts of Cuddapah, Kistna, North Arcot, and Tanjore, where formerly this form of crime had been rife, there was a marked decrease.

There was no increase in the amount of property lost by this class of heinous crime, which shews that, while these offences were more numerous, they were less serious, and were committed against less valuable property. In Bellary, the violent crime was committed by the starving labouring classes, and not by professional dacoits.

House-breaking.

40. There was a slight increase (2·0 per cent.) in house-breaking, during the year under review, 8,469 cases having occurred against 8,296 in 1865. In eleven of the twenty districts there was a decrease, and in the Western Range crime fell in every district, viz., from 1,205 to 1,009, or 16·2 per cent. There was a marked increase in the distressed districts, in Ganjam from 633 to 1,161 in 1865, and in Bellary from 415 to 732. The average detection in the Northern and Western Ranges was good, especially in Ganjam, where it reached 57·1 per cent.; in Malabar, where it reached fifty per cent., and in Salem, where it reached forty-four per cent. In Cuddapah, North Arcot, and Kurnool; in the Central Range, detection was indifferent. In the Southern Range, although improving, detection is still unsatisfactory. Of 6,225 persons arrested for house-breaking, 61·4 per cent. were convicted, in the proportion of 45·2 to every 100 offences.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

Offences against property without violence.

41. 25,082 offences against property, unaccompanied by violence, were reported, implicating 46,669 persons; 14,700 cases were brought to trial, and in 11,289 cases convictions were obtained against 19,137 persons. There was a considerable increase in the number of thefts reported as compared with the previous year, but a comparatively greater number of these offences was detected.

The increase in offences against property without violence is attributable to the increased number of simple thefts. In the per-centage of offenders convicted, and of property recovered, there was a satisfactory improvement; 9,825 of the 21,929 cases of simple theft reported having been successfully prosecuted, and 44·8 per cent. of the persons charged having been convicted and punished, against 36·7 per cent. in 1865.

The largest number of thefts occurred in the Central and Southern Ranges. In the Northern and Western Ranges detection was good, in the Central and Southern Ranges it was below forty per cent. 505 cases of receiving stolen property were prosecuted, and 410 persons convicted.

134 offences in respect to weights and measures were brought forward, against seventy-seven in 1865, but this description of fraud is by no means sufficiently checked by the Police, as shewn by the small number of cases brought forward during the year.

Malicious offences against property.

42. 13,751 persons were charged with malicious offences against property: of the most important class of these offences, namely, mischief by fire, 226 cases were reported; fifty-three cases were brought to trial, and in thirty-six of these convictions followed. Charges of petty mischief constitute more than three-fourths of all charges under this head; but in 1,443 cases only out of 4,190 of this nature was any offence proved.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

Under the head of malicious offences against property are included cases of poisoning cattle for the sake of their hides. Numbers of cattle are wilfully poisoned by the village toties and parialis, to whom the carcases and hides of cattle that die are by custom conceded, but the extent to which this crime is carried is not accurately represented by the Police returns, the Police being precluded from taking cognizance of such offences.

In the Central Range, where the total number of this class of offence was the highest, convictions fell below forty per cent. In the Western Range there were 140 convictions to ninety-five cases reported, and in the Northern and Southern Ranges the proportion of convictions to offences was eighty-four per cent. and seventy-five per cent., respectively.

Forgeries and offences against the currency.

43. The number of forgeries and offences against currency was 165 and 177 respectively; in thirty-six cases of the former, and in eighty-seven of the latter convictions ensued.

44. 2,950 charges of contempts and other offences against public justice were preferred; in 2,180 cases the offence was proved, and 4,619 persons were convicted.

In 1865 there were 3,017 cases reported, in which 4,403 persons were convicted. 1,660 charges of contempt of legal process were preferred, of which 1,617 were summarily disposed of by Magistrates, and 3,568 persons convicted.

Perjury.

184 charges of perjury were instituted, and in seventy-eight cases 104 persons were convicted, in the proportion of 56·5 to every 100 offences.

In England and Wales, in the year 1862, the proportion of convictions to charges of perjury was twenty to every 100 offences.

130 charges of withholding information, and giving false information were made, and in sixty-two cases, or 47·6 per cent., convictions were obtained. 442 charges of escape, negligently permitting escape and rescue, resulted in convictions in 293 cases, and in the punishment of 366 persons.

Eighty-five complaints of preferring false charges were brought forward, seventy-one came to trial, and in thirty-six convictions were obtained against forty-seven persons. The proportion of persons brought to trial on charges of this nature is so small, that this offence may be considered to flourish with impunity.

Murder.

45. 242 murders were committed, the average of seven years being 285. In 112 cases, the offenders were convicted, eighty-nine of whom were sentenced to death, and sixty-five to transportation for life, or to lesser punishment.

The average number of murders during the last seven years is 285. Sixty-six attempts to murder were committed, and in 46·9 per cent. of these cases convictions ensued. In Ganjam there were thirty-eight murders, and in Bellary thirty-two. In Cuddapah, North Arcot, South Malabar, South Canara, Coimbatore, Salem, Kurnool, Vizagapatam, the Godavery, and Madura, the number of murders ranged from sixteen to ten. In the other districts the number of murders was below ten, being lowest in Tanjore, Trichinopoly, and Madras, where there were four murders in each district.

Culpable homicide.

46. Of culpable homicides there were 110, against seventy-eight in 1865-66. 170 attempts at suicide were reported, against 205 in the previous year. 125 cases of concealment of birth and abandonment of children were reported, and in thirty-seven cases convictions were obtained.

Miscellaneous offences.

47. Cases of criminal trespass, insult, and defamation, constitute more than two-thirds of the whole of this class: of the 9,413 charges of this description preferred during the year, 4,416 went by default, and convictions were recorded in 2,607 cases only.

Offences under other Penal Laws.

48. 67,877 offences were charged under special and local Penal Laws, against 112,391 persons; 55,688 cases were brought to trial, and convictions were obtained in 47,501 cases. Heads of villages disposed of a greater number of petty thefts and other offences than in former years. Fewer charges were made and disposed of under the Madras Town Police Act than in the previous year.

Offences under Code of Criminal Procedure.

49. Under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 285 persons were charged with contempts of Court, &c., of whom 258 were convicted. In 119 cases, 215 persons were required to find security for good behaviour; 4,997 charges of breach of orders in respect of obstructions and nuisances, resulted in the conviction of 4,593 persons; and of 1,109 claims for maintenance, 417 were withdrawn or went by default, and orders were passed in 334 cases.

Offences under Railway Act, Pound Act, and Breach of Contract Act.

50. There were 211 offences against the Railway Act, and 1,449 against the Pound Act. 1,822 charges were preferred under the Breach of Contract Act, 922 of which were withdrawn or went by default; in the 639 cases which were tried, 817 persons were punished.

Offences under Boundary Marks Act.

51. 125 charges were brought under the Boundary Marks Act, in sixty-seven of which convictions followed.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

Offences against Revenue Laws.

52. 2,319 offences against Revenue Laws, viz., the Salt Laws, the Abkarry Law, and the Stamp Act, were reported, and 4,660 persons were punished for breaches of those Laws.

Operations of Madras Town Magistracy.

53. The Magistrates of the Town of Madras disposed of 8,598 cases under the Police Act, convicting, in 6,458 cases, 9,501 persons. There was a slight increase in the number of thefts, but a considerable decrease in the number of other offences committed and tried before the Town Magistrates during 1866-67.

Cases tried by Magistrates.

54. Magistrates (under which term Heads of villages are included) disposed summarily of 95,193 cases, and convicted 1,27,024, or 69·8 per cent. of the 1,81,849 persons implicated, as follows :—

| Under | Cases tried. | Persons charged. | Convicted. | Per cent. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Penal Code ... ... | 39,523 | 89,447 | 52,721 | 58·9 |
| Other Laws ... ... | 55,670 | 92,402 | 74,303 | 80·4 |
| Total... | 95,193 | 1,81,849 | 1,27,024 | 69·8 |

Heads of villages summarily disposed of 30,400 cases ; in 1864-65, the number of cases summarily disposed of by these officers was only 14,885.

Subordinate Magistrates of the first class summarily tried and disposed of 7,956 cases under the Penal Code, and 1,528 cases under other Penal Laws. In the former cases sixty-two per cent., and in the latter cases eighty-two per cent. of the persons charged were convicted.

Second class Subordinate Magistrates tried and disposed of 23,754 summary cases under the Penal Code, and convicted fifty-seven per cent. of all persons tried by them under the Code. Under Special Laws, 8,023 summary cases were settled by Magistrates of this grade; 18,021 persons, or eighty-two per cent., of all tried, were punished by them.

Magistrates having full powers.

55. Magistrates with full powers summarily determined 7,813 cases under the Penal Code, and convicted 9,444 of the persons tried. The increase (27·5 per cent.) of cases so determined, as compared with 1865-66, is due in great measure to the extended jurisdiction which has been conferred upon the Magistrates in cases of robbery and house-breaking.

Under Special Laws, Magistrates having full powers (including Justices of the Peace) summarily disposed of 15,719 cases, and convicted 16,663 of the 21,711 persons tried.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE.

Committed cases.

56. Magistrates of all classes held preliminary investigations in 3,640 committable cases. 2,556 cases, involving 7,012 prisoners, were committed to the superior Courts; 1,884 cases, or 74·5 per cent. of the whole being committed by the subordinate magistracy.

Judicial Courts.

57. Judicial Courts disposed of 2,564 committed cases, and convicted 4,228, or sixty per cent., of the persons tried by them.

High Court.

58. The High Court tried 217 cases and 440 prisoners, convicting 366 persons.

Session Courts.

59. 1,987 cases and 5,914 prisoners were tried by Session Courts; 3,429 of the persons so tried were convicted.

POLICE.

POLICE.

Force.

60. The total strength of the General Police Force of the Presidency, exclusive of the Madras Town Police, on the 31st March 1867, was—

One Inspector General, one Assistant Inspector General, four Deputy Inspectors General, twenty-one District Superintendents, nineteen Assistant Superintendents, 486 Inspectors, and 23,871 Constables, or a total number of 24,403; the full permanent establishment is 24,759 of all ranks; the Force was, therefore, 1·6 per cent. under strength at the close of the official year.

Distribution and proportion to population.

61. Of the general Force, 20,862 were employed on general Police duty, 1,860 in guarding convict establishments, 1,538 in the Revenue Salt Preventive Service, and 143 on preventive duty on the frontier. The proportion of Police on general duty to the whole population was 1 to 1,065, or in towns, 1 to 566, and in the rural districts, 1 to 1,215, respectively.

Cost.

The cost of the establishment, during the eleven months which constituted the past official year, was as follows:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Pay and allowances .. ... ... | Rs. | 28,95,008 |
| Clothing and accoutrements ... ... | „ | 3,48,260 |
| Rent, and miscellaneous... ... ... | „ | 81,170 |
| | „ | 33,24,438 |
| Village Watchers and local servants... ... | „ | 25,010 |
| | „ | 33,49,448 |

POLICE. The average cost per man was Rupees 145-2-2 per annum, or two annas, or three pence, a head of the population.

Madras Town Police. 62. The total strength of the Madras Town Police (inclusive of Mounted and Marine) during the past official year was 785, being exactly the same as in the previous year.

The cost of the Town Police (exclusive of the Marine Police) during the eleven months of the official year 1866-67 was Rupees 1,90,138.

Marine Police. 63. The Marine Police have worked effectively, and imports and exports have been securely guarded. The receipts realized by the Marine Police during the past year fell somewhat short of the disbursements, owing to the general stagnation of trade which characterized the year. In previous years the receipts have exceeded disbursements.

Internal economy. 64. There was a further decrease in the number of casualties during the year, as compared with previous years, involving 14·2 per cent. of the strength, against 15·8 per cent. in 1865-66.

The number of dismissals and resignations has largely decreased ; that of deaths has increased, together with the number of admissions into Hospital ; the death-rate of men actually in the Force at the time of their decease being 20 per 1,000. 10,145 men, or 42·5 per cent. of the Force, were admitted into Hospital for the treatment of severe diseases, against 36·1 per cent. in the previous year.

Races and religions. 65. Little variation occurs from year to year in the relative proportion of castes and races in the Force. Sixty-two (62·3) per cent. are Hindoos ; 31·9 per cent. are Mahomedans ; and the rest are Europeans, East Indians, and Native Christians.

Offences by Policemen. 66. 397 men, or 1·6 per cent. of the Force, were convicted of offences before Courts : of these only forty-two were convicted by the Higher Courts ; in 1865-66, 1·8 per cent. were similarly convicted. Crime was confined to the lower ranks, and the slight increase of offences against property is attributable to the prevalence of high prices and consequent distress. Charges of negligent escape declined from eighty, in 1865-66, to thirty-seven, in 1866-67.

Education. 67. Fifty-six (56·5) per cent. of the whole Force can read and write intelligibly. In several districts, no men are entertained who cannot both read and write, and hundreds of men, who, when they entered the Force could neither read nor write, now write their own reports. 4,613 men were under instruction during the year, of whom 1,995 passed the test prescribed for their rank. At every station, the officer in charge is required to instruct his men daily, and all on first joining the Force are detained at head-quarters for one month's preliminary instruction before being sent to their stations. The children's schools, which have been established at District head-quarters, receive due attention at the hands of the officers. POLICE.

68. The Towns' Improvement Act, Madras Act X of 1865, was introduced into the principal towns throughout the Presidency during the year, and the several Municipalities have for some months paid seventy-five per cent., of the cost of their Town Police. The Act has generally worked satisfactorily, but it would be premature to express an opinion as to the financial relief afforded, before the close of the current year. Towns' Improvement Act.

69. The Superannuation fund now amounts to Rupees 6,19,930, representing an annual income of Rupees 1,17,100. At the close of the previous year, the balance at the credit of the fund was Rupees 5,08,610. Superannuation Fund.

70. The Police executed 313,302 processes to compel the appearance of 306,775 persons before Criminal Courts, during the year under review: of these 34,463 were Warrants against 37,690 persons, and 278,839 were Summonses against 279,220 persons. A slight increase appears in the number of persons arrested and summoned during the year, as compared with 1865-66, but this increase occurred in connexion with grave offences only, arising from the increase of crime and from more successful detection. The progressive decrease in the number of prisoners, against whom processes were issued in minor cases, still continues, having declined twenty-three per cent. since 1863. In 1863, one in every sixty-one of the population was compelled to appear before a Court; in 1866-67, one in 109. 46,758 miscellaneous processes and notices were executed by the Police in conveying prisoners to jail, summoning jurors, and the like. Processes executed.

71. The average daily number of convicts under Police guard in forty regular Prison establishments was 9,799, shewing an increase of 20·3 per cent. over the previous year. The steady increase in the number of inmates in Jails has become a very heavy charge on the Police Budget, the cost of guarding amounting to Rupees 1,53,648, or Rupees 15-10-10 per convict. Thirty-seven prisoners escaped, of whom nineteen, or fifty-one per cent., were recaptured. Jail guarded.

POLICE.

Subsidiary Jails guarded.

72. The Police guarded, in Magistrates' lock-ups, 19,445 persons convicted and sentenced to short periods of imprisonment, the average duration of such sentences being about nine and a half days. In 1865-66 the number of prisoners similarly confined in Subsidiary Jails was 15,212. Fifty-six escapes occurred in these Jails, and forty-four recaptures, or 78·5 per cent. were effected. The insecurity of the Magistrates' lock-ups and Subsidiary Jails, which accounts, in great measure, for the large number of escapes, has attracted the attention of the Government, which has already adopted measures for providing more secure and more healthy buildings.

Salt Guards.

73. The Police guarded Salt of the value of two hundred and forty-three and a half lakhs of rupees; and salt valued at one hundred and forty-nine and a half lakhs of rupees was manufactured under their supervision during the year.

Increase of crime, effects of the season

74. The season of 1866, as already remarked was extremely unfavorable. The average price of all necessaries of life was exceptionally high throughout the year; and, in several districts, famine and entire cessation of work afflicted the lower classes and labouring poor for many months. The natural result was an increase of crime of all kinds against property, but the general detection of crime more than kept pace with its increase. The proportion of offences committed, to those brought to justice, was greater than that hitherto attained, and the ratio of convictions to offences, and of convictions to arrests, fairly stands comparison with that of former years. The per-centage of property recovered by the Police was considerably higher than it ever has been heretofore.

Thieves and depredators.

75. The attention of the Police continues to be directed towards attaining a thorough knowledge of the criminal classes, and of their places of resort, with a view to the prevention and detection of crime. 14,081 persons are borne on the Police returns as known to be living by depredation, and as notorious receivers of stolen property. To these must be added 16,802, who are reasonably suspected of being engaged in crimes against property, and 9,718 persons belonging to the various vagrant races, who, while practising their callings as salt-carriers, mat-makers, snake-charmers, &c., live mainly by depredation on the public. The supervision of the Police over drinking-shops is becoming more effective under the Abkarry Act (Act III of 1864), and the number of disorderly shops has decreased from 1,913 in 1865-66, to 1,772 in 1866-67. There is, however, an increase in the number of public gambling houses as compared with the previous year, and the attention of Government has been directed to the necessity of introducing an Act similar to that lately passed by the Government of India, for the control of public gambling in the North-West Provinces and elsewhere. POLICE.

76. 6,981 deaths by accident occurred during the year 1866-67 against 7,086 in 1865-66. 4,948, or seventy-one per cent. of all accidental deaths occurred by drowning. Unnatural deaths.

77. The number of suicides exceeds those which occurred in 1865-66 by 11·7 per cent., and the average of the preceding years by seventeen per cent. Suicides.

The cause of this increase of self-destruction is, as remarked by the Inspector General of Police, undoubtedly due to the prevailing destitution : women destroying themselves with their infant children from despair, and from want of food.

78. A large increase in the loss of life and property by fire is again noticeable as compared with previous years. 9,046 fires were reported, involving a loss of 151 lives, and nearly thirteen lakhs of rupees worth of property. In 1865-66, 7,150 fires occurred, 116 persons were burnt to death, and more than six and a half lakhs of rupees worth of property lost. Fires.

The greater number of these fires are, no doubt, caused by accident, but many must be the work of incendiaries. The unusually dry season must be assigned as one of the chief causes of the increased number of fires during the year under review.

JAILS.

79. The daily average number of prisoners in confinement during the year was 9,808, being 1,658 in excess of the number confined during 1865-66. Number of Prisoners in confinement

In October 1866, the average rose to 11,045.

The increase is due to the scarcity which prevailed in many districts, more especially in Ganjam, Kurnool, Bellary, and Cuddapah, many offences having been undoubtedly committed with the sole object of securing the perpetrators refuge in Jail. The number in Jail on the 31st March 1867 was 9,999, being 191 more than the general average.

80. The proportion of males to females of all convicts admitted to prison was of males 14,683, of females 822. Sex of Convicts.

JAILS.

State of education among Convicts.

81. Of the 21,021 convicts in Jail during the year under review, 2,246 were able to read and write, 833 could read only, and 13,636 could neither read nor write. Subsequently to admission into Jail, seventeen learned to read and write, twenty-two to write, and 118 to read.

Cost.

82. The expenses of Jails for the eleven months ending on the 31st March 1867, exclusive of Police guards and buildings, amounted to Rupees 7,29,969, of which Rupees 4,96,411 were expended on account of food, including extras for sick. The cost per prisoner was Rupees 75-8-8, shewing an increase as compared with the whole year of 1865-66, during which period the cost was Rupees 56-1-7 per man. This is attributable to the introduction of a new scale of diet, and to the abnormally high prices prevalent during the past year.

Deaths

83. There were 1,134 deaths in Hospital during the year, being at the rate of 11·561 per cent. on the average daily strength ; in 1865-66, there were 1,055 deaths, at the rate of 12·944 per cent. on the average daily strength : although the difference between the death-rates of the two years is small, there has been a general improvement in the health of the Jail population, where it has not been affected by exceptional causes, as in the Northern Division and in the Ceded Districts, where numbers were received into Jail in a very bad state of health, enfeebled by starvation, and ready to succumb to disease ; as in previous years the deaths occurred chiefly among prisoners of an advanced age or those recently incarcerated. The greatest mortality occurred in the undermentioned Jails, viz., Calicut, Rajahmundry, (District Jail), Cochin, Nellore, Madura, Guntoor, Mangalore, Palghat, Tinnevelly, Salem, Berhampore, Vizagapatam, and Tellicherry. In nine of these, the death-rate was much lower than that of 1865-66, and in one nearly equal, but in three, viz., those at Berhampore, Vizagapatam, and Tellicherry, it was much higher. At Tellicherry, there were 113 deaths, of which forty-three were from diarrhœa, thirty-two from cholera, and thirteen from anasarca : ninety-seven of the total number of deaths occurred between April and September, since which time there has been a marked improvement in the health of the prisoners. A cholera camp was formed on the appearance of cholera on the 17th August 1866. The per-centage of deaths to strength was 76·72 per cent.

Greatest Mortality.

At Berhampore the rate of deaths per cent. was 45·25, there having been 186 deaths, 100 of which were caused by diarrhœa, thirty-nine by dysentery, sixteen by cholera, and twenty-four by anasarca.

JAILS.

Of the deaths from diarrhœa, ninety-three occurred between June and December 1866. Since December last, the health of the Jail has gradually improved.

At Vizagapatam there were 109 deaths: thirty-three from cholera, eighteen from anasarca, eleven from diarrhœa, and eleven from atrophy. Cholera broke out on the 19th July 1866, and in that month and the following August, forty-eight persons died of that disease. Eighty-seven of the 109 casualties occurred between July and October inclusive, since which time an improvement has taken place in the health of the prisoners.

General health.

84. The prevailing diseases in the other Jails were cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, anasarca, and atrophy. At Bellary, as at Berhampore, the prevalence of a high death-rate is to be attributed to the bad state of health of the prisoners previous to admission: exclusive of such patients, the health of the Jail was generally good; a decided improvement is reported to have followed upon the introduction of the new scale of diet, which has been attended by a diminution in tendency to scorbutic ailments.

In several Jails overcrowding occurred, although the most strenuous efforts were made to avert it. Prisoners were hutted out in some places, employed as working parties at others, and provided with tents, &c., with great increase of comfort, and with decided benefit to their health. The subject of providing sufficient accommodation for all classes of prisoners has been under the anxious consideration of Government, and the necessary plans and estimates for the buildings required are being rapidly prepared.

Discipline.

85. Discipline was generally well maintained in the prisons throughout the Presidency, notwithstanding that in not a few of the Jails the Warders are reported as wanting in zeal and efficiency. At Guntoor, Chittoor, and Salem (Central) Jail, the inefficiency or misconduct of the Jailers and Deputy Jailers was such as to lead to their dismissal.

Conduct of prisoners.

86. The conduct of the prisoners was, on the whole, satisfactory. In the Rajahmundry Central Jail there was a tendency to discontent and insubordination on the assumption of charge by the then Superintendent in March 1866, but this was soon checked, and order was permanently restored. At Berhampore and Vizagapatam the conduct of the prisoners was indifferent, and at Chittoor laxity of conduct was fostered by the connivance of the subordinate Jail officials. The state of the Central Jails at Rajahmundry, Coimbatore, and Salem reflects great credit on the respective Superintendents of those Jails.

JAILS.

In the European Jail at Ootacamund want of discipline and of order prevailed at the beginning of the year, and frauds in regard to charges for food were discovered which led to the dismissal of the Keeper and Head Warder. Subsequent to this, discipline was well maintained, and great improvements were effected in the Jail generally during the year.

Employment of prisoners.

87. At places where new Jails were in course of construction, and where repairs and alterations were in progress at or near the sites of existing Jails, the prisoners were employed upon the works under the orders of officers of the Department of Public Works. Elsewhere the convicts employed outside the prison walls were engaged in making and repairing roads, quarrying stone, brick-making, erecting huts for Police, planting trees, cultivating hay, and working in the prison gardens. In the European Jail at Ootacamund, the prisoners were employed in sawing timber, relaying and metalling the prison yards, and in the menial duties of the Jail. The nature of the work performed by the prisoners at the Dodabetta and Neddiwuttum Plantation Jails on the Neilgherry Hills is of an exceptional character. At the former, which is under the charge of the Superintendent of the Government Chinchona Plantations, the convicts are employed on the plantation with the exception of a few who are occasionally sent to work at the Government gardens. The labor on the plantation is all tasked. It consists in excavating and filling pits, in planting, shading, and weeding. A Chinaman is expected to open twenty-five pits, each two feet square, as his task, and a native twenty pits of the same kind. For every five pits over and above the task the convict is credited with six pie, the value of which he receives in additional rations or condiments. The convicts are said to perform more work than free laborers.

Dodabetta and Neddiwuttum Plantation Jails.

Extramural labour.

88. Manufactures are now taught in many of the Jails throughout the country. At Masulipatam, manufactures are confined to coir-mat making; at Tanjore, rope-making, spinning, basket and coir-mat making are taught; in the Chittoor Jail paper is manufactured, and blacksmith's work is carried on; at Vellore, coir-mats and towels are made; and in the Madura Jail baskets for the use of the Jail are manufactured. At Chingleput, weaving and towel-making are carried on.

In the Rajahmundry Central Jail weaving, carpet-making, boot-making, carpentering, and blacksmith's work, pottery and brick-making are now taught. In the Salem Central Jail intramural labour was confined to weaving, coir-mat making, and rattan work ; and in the Coiambtore Central Jail the only manufactures taught were cloth and cumbly weaving and mat-making, labour being more emergently wanted for the construction of the new buildings.

Results of Manufactures in Jails.

89. The sale proceeds of manufactures in Jails amounted to Rupees 19,776, after deducting the charges incurred in the purchase of raw material.

New Jails built or in progress.

90. At Vizagapatam a new Jail is in progress, the male prisoners being located in thatched sheds, and the female convicts being lodged in a finished block of the new Jail.

Four blocks of radial cells had been finished and occupied in the Rajahmundry Central Jail during the year. The other buildings and the main wall were in progress. At Vellore the services of the convicts were placed at the disposal of the Department of Public Works in November 1866, for the construction of a new Central Jail ; and at Madura, a new Jail is in course of construction at a distance of two miles from the town, that now in use having been condemned.

The present Jail at Calicut will be abandoned on the completion of the new Jail now being erected at that place. At Coimbatore considerable progress was made with the Central Jail, and convict labour was largely employed on the new buildings.

Lawrence Asylum Works Jails.

91. Three hundred and fifty-two convicts were employed on the Lawrence Asylum works, in brick-making, excavating earth, and road-making, and as engine drivers, smiths, and sawyers under the orders of the Public Works Officer.

Improvements to existing Jails.

92. The unhealthiness of the Rajahmundry District Jail was such that it was proposed to relinquish or re-build it entirely, but the remedial measures adopted as a temporary expedient, such as removing the plaster of the walls, digging up the foundation soil and fumigation, were found to be in themselves effectual. At Guntoor the walls of the Jail, which were blown down in the Cyclone of November 1864, were re-built, and additional buildings were constructed. At Salem the construction of quarters for the Superintendent was commenced with convict labour. Several alterations and improvements were made in the Trichinopoly Jail, and the Tellicherry Jail buildings were repaired by the aid of convict labour.

Escapes.

93. Thirty-five prisoners escaped during the year : of these thirteen were re-apprehended, and one was shot in the pursuit.

JAILS.
Pardons.

94. Pardons were granted to eleven prisoners, the unexpired portions of their sentences being, in the case of five prisoners, remitted on account of incurable illness; in five cases, on account of services rendered in re-capturing convicts who escaped from the Coimbatore Jail in July 1866, and in one case for good conduct, and service rendered as an artificer.

SECTION IV.—REVENUE.

RECEIPTS.

95. The receipts for the official year 1866-67, which included only the eleven months from May 1866 to March 1867, amounted to Rupees 562,13,741,* being Rupees 18,26,960 less than eleven-twelfths of the Revenue of the preceding year. The decrease was due to the effect of a disastrous season on the Land Revenue, and to the almost complete cessation of collections on account of arrears of Income Tax.

CHARGES.

96. The charges amounted to Rupees 62,03,530, being eleven per cent. on the Revenue, and Rupees 90,680 more than in the corresponding period of 1865-66. The larger number of Assistant Collectors in the Service, the increased strength of the Forest Conservancy establishment, and the further introduction of the Revised Land Revenue Establishments account for this excess.

Net Revenue.

97. The net Revenue of the year was Rupees 500,10,211.

The subjoined statements shew the Receipts and Charges for the last five years :—

Out of the whole Revenue only Rupees 47,439 was collected by coercive process.

SEASON. 98. The year commenced with a general failure of the south-west monsoon, on which the Presidency is dependent for rain from May to August. The two preceding years had been extremely unfavorable to agriculture, and the result of this new calamity was to cause distress and suffering, such as had been unknown since 1832. The drought prevailed with more or less intensity through tracts comprising nearly one-fifth of the whole area of the Presidency, and in Ganjam and Bellary it resulted in famine.* The measures taken by Government to meet this emergency will be detailed hereafter.

Happily the north-west monsoon, commencing in October, brought a copious and timely supply of rain, and the prospects of the districts changed immediately for the better. The latter half of the year was as propitious as the former half had been unfavorable.

Health. 99. The year was, as might be expected, unhealthy. Cholera, small-pox, and fever appeared in most of the districts, and the distress and privation experienced in some parts made these epidemics more than usually fatal. The effect of the drought between May and August on cattle was terrible. It is reported that, in Bellary, a fifth of the stock perished from want of water and pasture. SEASON.

100. Prices rose more than could have been anticipated even from the experience of the previous year. The cost of Ragi, a grain which forms the largest portion of the food of the lower orders, increased by 35 per cent., being more than it had risen during the whole of the previous five years. 101. The area of cultivation increased by 70,998 acres, whilst the assessment decreased by Rupees 84,722. The simultaneous increase in area and decrease in assessment must be referred chiefly to the operations of the Settlement Department. It is worthy of remark, that the diminution of agricultural stock in the large district of Bellary caused all the more valuable lands to be taken up when the season improved, whilst the inferior soils were neglected, so that there the area under cultivation decreased, whilst the assessment increased. CULTIVATION.

102. The collections on account of Land Revenue fell short of those for eleven-twelfths of 1865-66 by Rupees 10,39,139. LAND REVENUE.

103. The receipts of the Forest Conservancy Department were larger than during the whole of the preceding year. The net Revenue amounted to Rupees 1,22,006. A large quantity of timber was sold, so that the stock in the depôts at the end of the year was worth Rupees 11,127 less than that on hand at the beginning of it. The conservancy and planting were successful as usual. FORESTS.

Large slabs and cross-sections of all the most valuable timbers were forwarded to the Paris Exhibition, and will be ultimately deposited in the India Museum.

104. The Abkarry Revenue increased in consequence of the high rates offered for the farms which were sold during the year. No useful ABKARRY.

comparison can be made between the amounts for the years 1865-66 and 1866-67, on account of the difference in their length.

SALT. 105. The Salt Revenue rose to Rupees 11,49,320 more than for the corresponding period in the preceding year, owing mainly to the increase of price from Rupees 1-8-0 per Indian Maund to Rupees 1-11-0 in March 1866. It is satisfactory to be able to add, that the consumption of this necessary of life has not been checked, but on the contrary has increased by one and a quarter per cent. The quantity exported by rail into the interior from the Madras Depôt was 96,000 Maunds more than in 1865-66—the total for eleven months being 11,83,200 Indian Maunds.

STAMPS. 106. There was a slight decrease in the Stamp Revenue as compared with the previous year, attributable to the extraordinary demand for stamps created in 1865-66 by the enactment of the Registration law.

INCOME TAX. 107. Rupees 13,911 was collected on account of arrears of Income Tax.

SEA CUSTOMS. 108. The Sea Customs collections were Rupees 5,948 in excess of those for the corresponding eleven months of the previous year.

The revision of the tariff by the Commission sitting in Calcutta resulted in the new Customs Act for 1867, by which, amongst other changes, the export duty on rice and other grain was raised from two to three annas per maund, and the import duty on sparkling wines from one rupee to one rupee and a half per gallon. The Act operated for only about three weeks in the year under report.

LAND CUSTOMS.

109. The Frontier Customs diminished slightly, in consequence of the depressed state of trade in the French territories.

TRADE.

110. A statement of the declared value of the imports and exports during the last ten years, and a comparative analysis of the principal articles of trade in 1866-67, will be found in the Appendix.

The value of imported merchandize fell off by upwards of twenty-three lacs, or about five per cent., and the value of exports (exclusive of treasure) by 379 lacs, or forty-six per cent. The latter decrease is entirely due to Cotton, which fell from 484 lacs in 1865-66 to 94 lacs in the eleven months of 1866-67. The quantity exported was only 24⅓ millions of pounds, (being less than in any one of the ten preceding years,) against 110 millions of pounds, being ⅕ths of the previous year's export.

111. There was an increase of fifteen lacs in imports of Twist, of eight lacs in Seeds, and of smaller amounts in Cotton goods, Paddy, Grain (with the exception of Rice), Malt liquor, Metals, raw Silk, Spices, and Wines. There was a decrease of eighteen lacs in Railway stores, of ten lacs in Government stores, of eight and a half lacs in [redacted], of seven lacs in Timber, and of smaller amounts in Millinery and wearing apparel, Jute, Silk, and Wool manufactures, and Tea.

EXPORTS.

112. In exports, there was an increase of twenty-four lacs in Rice,* and of smaller amounts in Cocoanuts, Dyes, Paddy, and Hides, and a decrease of 359½ lacs in Cotton wool, of thirty lacs in Coffee, of seventeen lacs in Indigo, of sixteen lacs in Seeds, and of smaller amounts in Cotton goods, Coir, Gingely, Dregs, Drugs, Fruits, and Vegetables, Grain (with the exception of Paddy and Rice), Oil, Saltpetre, Sugars, and Timber.

The exports of food-grains were nearly a million cwt. in excess of the imports.

The subjoined statement gives the quantity and value of the export in staple articles for the last three years. It has continued to increase in Cotton Piece Goods and Spices, and to decline in Indigo and Oil; and it has now fallen off for the first time in Coffee.

* There was an actual increase of more than 200,000 cwts. in the quantity of rice exported, as compared with ⅕ths of the previous year.

COTTON CULTIVATION.

113. The following table shews the area cultivated with Cotton and the exports in Cotton wool for the last ten years. The cultivation has decreased by nearly ten per cent., but is even now more extended than it was in 1862-63, or any previous year. The quantity exported is less than it has been since 1855-56, and the value of the trade is something less than it was in 1859-60.

District Road Fund.

114. The receipts of the District Road Fund increased from Rupees 6,53,354 in 1865-66 to Rupees 8,54,928 in the eleven months of 1866-67. The expenditure on roads also increased from Rupees 5,66,520 to Rupees 6,69,801. The District Road Cess Act, which substitutes a rate not exceeding six pice in every rupee of the annual rent value of all occupied land for the varying and very partial local assessments on Government land, which had hitherto been in force, was introduced in some of the districts towards the close of the year. The assets of the fund may be expected to increase so largely as the operation of the Act is extended that the Imperial Exchequer will be relieved from all charges on account of roads not strictly imperial in character.

Inam Commission.

115. The work of the Inam Commission is now so far advanced, that the number of titles confirmed during the year and their value was much less than in any of the preceding years; but the work of disposing of appeals, preparing registers, issuing title-deeds, and all the other minutiæ attending the consummation of the labours of the Commission was very great.

It was found necessary to send a Deputy Collector to the Godavery and Kistna Districts, where it was decided to treat under the Inam rules, certain special tenures of doubtful character, which the

INAM COMMISSION.

Commission had hitherto left untouched. The Government directed, in the course of the year, that the option of enfranchisement, which has for some years past been offered to Inamdars, should be withdrawn at the end of 1867 in the case of all grants finally disposed of prior to that date.

Results of Commission.

116. The following statement shows the results of the Commission from its commencement in September 1859. Excluding Village Service Inams, it has added eight and a half lacs to the annual State Revenues at a cost once for all of ten lacs :—

REVENUE SURVEY.

117. The Demarcation and Survey Department was at work in the districts of Coimbatore, Tinnevelly, Madras, Kurnool, Cuddapah, and Ganjam. Six hundred and seventy-four villages, containing 2,523

Villages surveyed and mapped.

square-miles of country, were surveyed during the year; 1,018 villages, containing 3,320 square-miles, were mapped, and the maps of 1,070 villages, containing 2,724 square-miles, were lithographed. The mapping of 165 more villages, containing 416 square-miles, was commenced. The correct field areas of 855 villages, including 2,834 square-miles, were ready for settlement purposes at the end of the year. The survey and mapping of the Shervaroy Hills were completed, and good progress was made with the stations on the Neilgherry Hills. Three hundred and eighty-three square-miles were demarcated during the year in the districts of Madras and Ganjam. The total expenditure in the Survey

Candidates may pass in these tests at the same examination, or at different examinations as they choose. The modified test for Tahsildars was a temporary arrangement, to test the qualifications of old servants of tried ability, and selected as apparently fit for appointment, who could not be expected from age and want of leisure, to prepare for the more elaborate examination. It has been discontinued since the close of the year.

173. Rupees 10,559 were expended on the good water channel from Sultanagram bridge to Robertson's Pettah, and on the extension of good water conduits in the town of Masulipatam. The main channel is now completed.

Paumben channel in the Madura District.

174. The operation of cutting the inner angle of the reef channel at Paumben continued in progress, and an outlay of Rupees 2,632 was incurred in blasting 9,195 cubic feet of stone, and removing 29,267 cubic feet of silt, gravel, &c.

WORKSHOPS.

Operations of Workshops.

176. The operations of the Workshop at Paumben were confined to the repair of hand-dredges, canoes, boats, &c. The Workshops at Bezwarrah and Nellore were engaged chiefly on the current work of those districts. In the Dowlaishweram Factory the out-turn is estimated at Rupees 1,10,015, of which Rupees 5,830 represent the value of work executed for private persons.

LOCAL FUNDS.

Expenditure from Local Funds.

MADRAS RAILWAY.

178. The number of miles open for traffic on the Madras Railway during the year under review, was 646, viz., on the South-west Line, from Madras to Beypore, 407 miles, and from Jollarpett Junction to Bangalore, 85 miles; on the North-west Line 154 miles are open from Arconum Junction to Moodanoor, of which 35 miles, from Cuddapah to Moodanoor, were opened on the 1st August 1866.

Mileage open for traffic.

Extension during the year.

Progress of works.

179. A pile and girder bridge across one of the arms of the Kuddulhoondy river, near Beypore, was constructed during the year under review; and the girder bridge across the Cauvery, on which the vibration had been so considerable as to displace some of the stone work of the piers, was strengthened by the addition of braces, and the oscillation and deflection have perceptibly diminished.

No other large works have been in progress on the open line of Railway, but a number of additional buildings have been in course of construction at some of the larger stations, Jollarpett and Arconum Junctions, and Coimbatore, and preparations have been made at Errode for the junction with the Great Southern Line. A suitable site has been taken up by Government in the vicinity of the People's Park for a new terminal Passenger Station at Madras, for which designs have been prepared.

Boucherie process abandoned.

180. The "Boucherie process" for the preparation of sleepers, by which it was hoped that jungle-wood, obtainable in the vicinity of the South-west Line, might be utilized, has been definitely abandoned. Timber sleepers are now made of the old approved woods, and their use is confined to the portion of the South-west Line, between the river Cauvery at Errode and Beypore, a distance of 165 miles. The cast-iron sleepers used on the remainder of the South-west Line and on the North-west Line continue to give satisfaction; the cost of maintaining the permanent-way laid with them is about one-half less than the cost of maintenance of a permanent-way laid with wooden sleepers.

Cast-iron Sleepers.

RAIL-ROADS.

State of works on open line.

181. The whole of the works on the open line of Railway have been maintained in good order during the year, and the permanent-way is for the most part all that can be desired.

Quantities of work done.

182. The quantities of earth-work, masonry, &c., executed during the official year, on the South-west Line, Bangalore Branch, and North-west Line are as follow:—

NORTH-WEST LINE.

Surveys up to Bellary and Raichoor.

183. On the North-west Line, the surveys up to Raichoor on the main line, and to Bellary, have been completed, and works have been commenced along about 100 miles from the present terminus at Moodanoor.

Works at Moodanoor.

184. The whole of the works from Moodanoor onwards, have been given out on contract, and liberal rates were allowed on the condition that the line should be opened for traffic to Raichoor and Bellary by July 1869. The last report of progress is not satisfactory, and unless greater expedition be used, the above condition will not be fulfilled.

Revenue derived from traffic.

185. There was a considerable increase in the receipts from traffic on the North-west Line, due to the additional length of line opened; the number of passengers and goods carried, and the receipts were as follows:—

186. The working expenses per mile on the North-west Line amounted to Rupees 1,436, and maintenance to Rupees 644 per mile.

S. W. LINE AND BANGALORE-BRANCH.

187. The number of passengers and goods carried, and the revenue derived on the South-west Line is shewn below; making allowance for the past year, consisting of only eleven months, the traffic on this line still shews a considerable falling off; the decrease in the number of first and second class passengers is attributable to the higher fares introduced in November 1865 :— RAILROADS.

192. One hundred and twenty-four miles are open for traffic, on the line from Negapatam to Caroor, of which forty-five miles, from Trichinopoly to Caroor, were opened in December 1866.

Cost of maintenance.

195. The maintenance of way cost Rupees 587 per mile, and the working expenses Rupees 2,424.

Progress of Works.

196. The works on the extension to Errode have been carried on vigorously. Forty-five miles of the total distance were opened in December 1866, and a further section, seventeen miles, is reported to be completed. The whole line to Errode will probably be ready within the current calendar year.

MADRAS IRRIGATION AND CANAL COMPANY.

Short progress and its cause.

197. The progress made on the works of the Main Canal during the year was altogether inconsiderable. The Company having, up to the close of the previous year, expended more than nine-tenths of the guaranteed capital, and being unable to obtain subscriptions to additional capital without a guarantee, were obliged, or deemed it prudent, to dismiss the greater part of the executive establishment, and to suspend the construction of works until ways and means had been provided for the completion of at least a portion of their scheme. An appeal was made to the Secretary of State for assistance, and the negotiations resulted in the execution of a supplementary agreement, in which, on certain conditions, the Secretary o fState arranged to advance money, as required, to the amount of £600,000. This contract was signed on the 2nd October 1866, and the Company immediately took steps for the re-organization of the Engineering establishment. Up to the close of the year, however, work had been resumed to only a very trifling extent, and the canal is, so far as its main object—the supply of water for irrigation—is concerned, no nearer serviceable working condition than it was a year ago. IRRIGATION AND CANAL COMPANY.

198. The new contract provides for the completion of the Main Canal for irrigation and navigation, and for all necessary distribution and other works from Soonkasala to Cuddapah, a total length of about 188 miles. The most important omission is the absence of any provision for reservoirs, without which the canal will never be thoroughly effective as an irrigation work, while its value as a line of navigation will be comparatively small. The extension of the canal below Cuddapah down to Somaiswaram, and thence through the Nellore district to the coast, is not referred to in the supplementary agreement. Supplementary Contract.

199. The estimates sanctioned by Government up to the close of 1865-66, amounted to Rupees 70,95,281-1-10, and provided for the construction of the Main Canal from the commencement to the end of the eighth section, in the 143rd mile, with the anicut and head works at Soonkasala on the Tumbuddra; for the Somaiswaram anicut, where the Pennair enters the Nellore district; and for a few works of distribution and station buildings. Estimates sanctioned up to close of previous year, with work provided for by them.

Estimates for repairs do not, under the original contract, require the sanction of Government, and the Company are alone responsible for the efficient maintenance of the works. Pending, however, the settlement of the Revenue accounts, and as a temporary convenience, the cost of such repairs has been allowed to be debited to the guaranteed capital, and on this account regular estimates have been prepared and submitted for the sanction of Government.

Portion of the line of Main Canal in Nellore.

203. The surveys for this part of the general scheme were completed during the year, and the establishment of the division was then broken up, and transferred to the Kurnool district, for employment on those sections of the canal, the completion of which takes precedence of the lower divisions. The result of the investigations in Nellore is understood to be satisfactory, but no report of the cost or nature of the works has as yet been made by the Company for the information of Government. IRRIGATION AND CANAL COMPANY.

204. There is no progress to be reported on, but the state of some portions of the project require a few remarks. State of the works.

205. The old breach again gave way during a high fresh which occurred in October. Since then the whole of the debris of this and former breaches has been cleared away, and the masonry has been carried down to the rock. The former arrangements were far from secure, and when a ring-bund had been formed, and the breach cleared, it was found that the supposed difficulty of constructing a solid wall on the rock had been much exaggerated. Soonkasala Anicut.

206. These continued throughout the season to act efficiently, and to carry as much water as could be made use of. In the embankments of the first section some slips occurred, which were at once attended to, and the safety of the canal secured. Head Works, 1st Section, Main Canal and Hindry Aqueduct.

207. The leaky state of the embankments in this section was referred to in the Report for 1865-66. In the year under review, it was hoped that water would be taken as far as the 53rd mile of the canal, but unfortunately breaches were caused by the leakage in the 25th and 27th miles, and it soon became evident that nothing but a thorough reformation of the embankments would make the canal safe, or capable of carrying even a moderate supply. After, therefore, three or four breaches had occurred, and the failure of the banks in numberless other places appeared to be only a question of time, the water was shut off from the canal below the 24th mile, and all hope of carrying it any further during the year abandoned. The work to be done to make the banks water-tight will occupy at least six months, and it has not yet been commenced ; it is clear, therefore, that no water can be sent down below the 24th mile during the irrigation season of 1867-68. 2nd Section, Main Canal, 18th to 32nd miles.

208. The third section, miles 33 to 43, and the fourth section as far as the 53rd mile, were in a better state than the second section, and in the fourth section some rainfall drainage was received, which filled the tanks to a little above canal bed level ; so that, probably, could Tumbuddra water have been sent down to the commencement Canal below the 2nd Section.

IRRIGATION AND CANAL COMPANY.

of the third section, some beginning might have been attempted of the extension of irrigated cultivation. The remaining sections of the canal require no special notice. They suffered more or less deterioration from the cessation of work while in an unfinished condition, but, where due precautions had been taken, the value of the damage was very small.

Distribution works.

209. Neither the designing nor the execution of works of this description made any progress requiring notice. Backward as is the Main Canal itself, the channels of distribution are still more so.

Bellary Division investigations.

210. The estimates for a canal from Walavapore, on the Tumbuddra, to Bellary, a distance of 66¾ miles, were completed in December, and the project was examined and reported on shortly after. The estimated cost of a canal to carry 3,00,000 cubic yards an hour, or cubic feet 2,250 per second, is, according to the calculations of the Company's Engineer, Rupees 120,71,860. In reporting on the project to Government, this amount was increased by allowances for extra works a nd rates, &c., to Rupees 143,88,000. This sum includes reservoir storage. At the close of the year, the Government were waiting for information from the Bombay and Mysore Governments regarding the sites named for reservoirs, as also for particulars of the cost of rock cutting on certain railways, as well as for the opinion of the Revenue officers on the estimated returns, before coming to a decision upon the merits of the project. Some of the works, such as the cutting required through the water-shed, which at the summit is 105½ feet above canal bed level, in the 28th mile : a tunnel and heavy rock-cutting in the 36th mile, are of a difficult and costly nature, and the project would take many years, perhaps ten years, to complete. Should, however, it be considered that the probable returns will be sufficiently good to warrant the expenditure required for the construction of the canal, there is nothing in the way of constructive difficulty which would not yield to skilful and persevering management.

Average labor employed on canal works.

211. The average labor employed on the Company's canal works during this year, and also for the two preceding years was as follows :—

213. The mode of keeping these accounts has not been determined, and consequently the receipts on the one hand and the expenditure on the other have not been properly brought to account.

Rules for Irrigation, Revenue, &c., accounts.

214. The returns received from the Collector of Kurnool shew that, up to the 31st March, the total collections amounted to Rupees 10,494-10-9; those of the year cannot be stated, owing to the incompleteness of the accounts. The particulars of cultivation, gross, and net revenue, &c., are, however, subjoined, for the period from the commencement of cultivation up to the 30th April 1866, and for the year ending on the 31st March 1867.

SECTION VI.—MARINE.

Marine Acts.

221. Preliminary steps have been taken for the consolidation of the various Imperial Marine Acts, and for framing a Local Act for the purpose of forming the ports of the Presidency into two groups, Eastern and Western, payment of dues at any port in the one group exempting coasting steamers from payment of charges at any other port in the same group. This concession will have the effect of developing trade at ports which steamers now avoid in order to escape payment of the dues demanded, and the further provision for forming a general Port Fund, will facilitate the improvement of all the ports on the sea board of the Presidency.

Infractions of Marine Acts.

222. The only infractions of Marine Acts during the year have occurred with reference to the carriage of native passengers in excess of the prescribed number. One brig was fined at Madras, and three at Cocanada, in sums varying from 600 to 400 Rupees, under Act XXV of 1859.

Port Funds.

223. The Port Funds are all more or less solvent. Ganjam and Vizagapatam, which shewed a deficit at the close of 1865-66, have now a small sum at credit. The total receipts for the year under report were Rupees 1,16,973, the disbursements Rupees 1,09,946.

New Port Lights.

224. The extension of trade and establishment of various lines of coasting steamers, touching at all the principal ports, has rendered it necessary to provide improved lights at the ports throughout the Presidency. Application has been made to the Home Government for dioptric lanterns for the following lighthouses: Mangalore, Cannanore, Tellicherry, Tuticorin, Negapatam, Pulicat, Armeghon, Point Divi, Masulipatam, and Santapilly, at an estimated cost of Rupees 31,500. The cost will, in each case, with the exception of Point Divi, Pulicat, and Santapilly, be met from Port Funds.

Wrecks.

225. Six vessels were lost during the year on the coasts of the Presidency, one only succumbing to stress of weather. A small native brig of 47 tons was driven in a gale of wind, on the night of the 7th June 1866, on the reef off Manalli Island, near Paumben; no lives were lost, and the greater portion of the cargo was saved. The "Rajpoot," a fine new English iron ship of 1,333 tons, bound from London to Calcutta, ran ashore during the night of the 5th September, in fine weather, owing to gross mismanagement. The "Belgravia," a ship of 893 tons, engaged by the French Government to carry coolies from Pondicherry and Yanam to Reunion, and the "Monitor," 515 tons, on her way from Singapore to Bombay, were stranded in October and December off Bundermalunka and Quilon, respectively; in each case the wreck was caused by negligence and inattention to the lead. The remaining two wrecks were caused by leaks suddenly breaking out, while the vessels were at anchor. MARINE.

226. Five masters and three mates received certificates of competency, and two Masters and two Mates certificates of service, under Act I of 1859, during the year under review. Examination of Masters and Mates.

227. The weather during the past year has been generally moderate. No severe storm was experienced at any of the ports except Paumben, where a cyclone was felt on the night of the 1st June. Weather.

228. The "Arracan" and "Tubal Cain," having completed the relief for the year, were employed in carrying grain to Ganjam and Pooree, where great scarcity prevailed. The arrangements for landing the grain at Pooree were very defective, communication by sea being after a time almost entirely cut off. The "Tubal Cain," with 8,000 bags of rice from Tanjore, was nearly lost, and on reaching Akyab was found to be too much damaged to be worth repairing. Shipment of grain for Ganjam and Pooree.

In March, scarcity again prevailing in Orissa, a ship was chartered and despatched with 7,273 bags of rice, and 12 Madras boats in pieces, with crew and boat-builder, to effect the landing of the grain.

229. The movement of Troops during the year was trifling; but was effected with difficulty, owing to the want of an efficient steamer. The "Prince Arthur" has been regularly employed since her arrival on the 6th December, and the "Clara," sent in place of the "Tubal Cain," was engaged from the 20th December to the 9th April. Movement of Troops.

230. The communication through the back-water, which had become very shallow during the previous year, owing to the closing of the bar of the river in consequence of failure of rain, is again opened, and the bar is as deep as it formerly was. PORT CONSERVANCY. Bimlipatam.

In August, this port was constituted a port for the embarkation of emigrants on the Eastern Coast.

231. The bay on which these ports are situated still continues to silt up, and the banks off Point Gardewar are extending; it is apprehended that these banks will eventually fill up the whole bay. Cocanada and Coringa.

A new dioptric revolving light has been received from England for the Hope Island lighthouse, and will be put up within a few months, when a fixed white light will be exhibited from the column at Cocanada.

Notwithstanding the depression of trade, the imports and exports at Cocanada were nearly equal to those of the previous year.

Masulipatam.

232. The bar of the river at this port, which was opened during the cyclone of 1864, is still shifting to the southward; the depth of water remains about the same, but the river has silted up considerably, and the navigation between the bar and the fort is intricate and difficult.

The new wharf has been completed, and a powerful crane is to be erected upon it. The flagstaff and light are in good order.

Madras.

233. The traffic over the Madras Pier has been constant and heavy; no damage has occurred to the Pier, with the exception of the decay of the beams on which the platform rests. The whole surface is to be planked, the old beams being replaced where necessary.

The outer ends of the groins at the head of the pier were, during the year under review, cleared away, with a view to decreasing and preventing the accumulation of sand round the pier. The measure appears to have been successful, as the depth of water at the ladder which, in April 1866, was only 15 feet, is now 20 feet 11 inches. The attempt to supply water from the pier has been unsuccessful, and ships have still to be supplied from the beach.

Madras Light House.

234. The Madras light-house maintains its character as one of the best in India.

Negapatam.

235. Estimates have been called for a light-column to be erected at this port. The merchants of Negapatam and Nagore have contributed Rupees 3,150 towards this object, and more is expected. The total cost is estimated at Rupees 10,000.

The bar is rather deeper than it was last year, and the dredge has been at work deepening the port near the docks.

Paumben.

236. The Paumben channels remain much as they were last year; the cutting off of the projecting angle of the reef column is still in progress.

The number of vessels that passed through the channels during the eleven months of the past year was 1,861, of which eighty-one were steamers. A new boat has been built at Cochin, and sent to Paumben for the use of the Government Pilot.

Tuticorin.

237. This port having been constituted a port for the registry of vessels under Act X of 1841, certificates were granted to nine vessels during the year.

Licenses have been granted to 184 sailing vessels and two steamers engaged in the passenger trade to Ceylon. PORT CONSERVANCY.

238. A fourth class dioptric lantern has been received from England, but cannot be exhibited before the close of the present year. Cochin.

The landing place, which was built at a cost of Rupees 1,800, is being undermined by the sea.

239. This port is now very generally used during the south-west monsoon, the coasting steamers all touching there during that season. Narrakel.

240. The trade of this port is increasing. Beypore.

241. Much has been done towards completing the quay at this port, and filling up the land reclaimed. Mangalore.

The bar is still shifting northward, and appears to be shallower than formerly.

SECTION VII.—FINANCIAL.

Change of official year.

242. In consequence of the change under which the official year was made to terminate on the 31st March, instead of on the 30th April, the estimate and actuals of the past year embrace the transactions of only eleven months.

Comparison of the Actuals with the Estimate for 1866-67.

243. The total amount of revenue realized from all sources, from 1st May 1866 to 31st March 1867, was Rupees 611,08,800, or Rupees 13,85,200 below the estimated income. The total actual expenditure during the same period was Rupees 243,92,990, or Rupees 94,440 below the Budget provision.

Demands for small coins in the Mofussil.

247. The demand for small coins in the Provinces was comparatively good during the past year. The value of small Silver sent in 1866-67 amounted to Rupees 2,99,000, and of Copper Rupees 1,03,300, shewing an increase of 2,09,000 in the former, and of Rupees 44,100 in the latter, as compared with the preceding year. In addition to the above, Rupees 30,000 worth of Copper coins were despatched to Coorg, and 1,25,000 Rupees worth to British Burmah.

The statement printed in the Appendix shews the receipts and disbursements at the Bank of Madras, on account of Government, during the official year 1866-67. The receipts amounted to Rs. 440,04,412-1-0, the disbursements to Rupees 432,68,732-2-0. The balance in hand on the 30th April 1867 was Rupees 40,57,710-4-11.

MINT.

248. The past year was a most exceptional one, the receipt of bullion falling much below the average for many years, in consequence apparently of the great decrease in the export of cotton, and the unfavorable rate of exchange on England, which rendered it more advantageous to purchase bills on Madras for remittances from England than to transmit bullion; and indeed led to the export of rupees as bullion to England for the first time in the history of the Madras Mint.

Mint receipts and expenditure.

252. The charges for seignorage and refinage on Merchants' silver bullion received for coinage, with the gain on the coinage of copper, and on the sale of copper scissel, the excess of silver found in the different departments of the Mint, and of cash received into the Mint for work done for private parties, and charges for articles made for other public departments, amounts to Rupees 1,88,495-12-11. The expenses of the Mint and of the Assay Department, with the amount written off on account of loss on copper coinage and copper scissel sold, melting loss and shipment to England of silver bullion is Rupees 1,61,358-1-0.

The sum left in favor of the Mint is Rupees 27,137-11-11 as shewn in the following statement:—

PAPER CURRENCY.

255. The total nominal circulation of notes throughout the Presidency, at the close of the year under review, amounted to 64,03,420 against 64,02,570, during the preceding year. The apparent increase in up-country circle notes arose from fresh issues to replace notes used as a means of remittance to Madras, and held temporarily in deposit in the Bank or Head Office of the Currency Department, and the corresponding decrease in Madras Circle Notes was caused by the changes in the agreement entered into between the Government and the Bank of Madras, which rendered it no longer an advantage to the latter to keep its reserve in Notes.

Total circulation of Notes.

256. The Exchange Department was transferred from the Bank to the Mint on the 1st March 1867. It cannot yet be stated, with certainty, what the extent of exchange operations will be, but it does not appear that the circulation of notes will either be increased or diminished by reason of the transfer. In the month of March, the Exchange Department at the Mint issued notes for cash, or other notes, equivalent to Rupees 1,05,830, and coin in exchange for notes to the value of Rupees 2,70,490, a proportion which it is expected will generally be maintained.

Operations of Exchange Department.

257. The total number of notes issued and received by the several circles, in exchange for cash or other notes, during the year is shewn below:—

Issue and receipt of Notes.

Circles.

258. In the Vizagapatam Circle there is very little business.

In Calicut and Trichinopoly the circulation is fair, but is chiefly availed of as a means of remittance to Madras.

Receipt of Circle Notes at Madras.

259. The receipts of circle notes in the Currency Office, Madras, during the year were as follows:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Calicut Notes... ... | ... Rupees | 9,38,870 |
| Trichinopoly do ... ... | ... „ | 10,51,810 |
| Vizagapatam do ... ... | ... „ | 39,750 |

PAPER CURRENCY.

At Calicut an adjustment is easily effected, without incurring the cost of packing and conveying the coin to Madras, the Bank of Madras gladly paying cash to the Currency Office in Madras for an order to the amount in its favor at Calicut. The cost of remitting notes to Calicut is under 2½ Annas per 1,000 Rupees.

With Trichinopoly the same facility of adjustment does not exist; the charges for conveying coin will, however, be materially reduced on the completion of the Railway.

Issuing and cashing of Notes by Government Treasuries.

260. The experiment of issuing freely currency notes at all Treasuries in the Provinces, whether demanded in exchange for coin or in payment of Government dues, was made, under orders of the Government of India, for a period of six months.

The effect was an augmented demand for notes, but apparently no real increase in circulation.

It is expected that a large increase of circulation will result from the free cashing of notes at all Government Treasuries so far as funds are available, a course sanctioned by the Government of India in January 1867.

Government Securities.

261. The investments in Government Securities at the end of the year amounted to Rupees 30,28,580-10-6.

Receipts and disbursements.

262. The receipts and disbursements of the Department during the year under review were as follows:—

Printing of Notes in Vernacular languages.

263. The Commissioner of Paper Currency notices that the want of a description of the value and nature of the notes, easily intelligible to the mass of the people in their own vernaculars, is a great obstacle to a more extended circulation. Steps will be taken for adopting the recommendations made by the Commissioner on this point.

SECTION VIII.—POLITICAL.

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN.

264. The official returns relating to the administration of the Travancore and Cochin States, which will be found in the Appendix, are for the Malabar year ending on the 14th August 1866. The present review is brought down to the close of the official year 1866-7.

TRAVANCORE. Civil Justice.

265. Steady progress continues to be made in the administration of justice. There has been a very large increase of suits in the District Munsiffs' Courts, owing, in great measure, to the creation of new rights of property under the important measure of enfranchisements of Crown lands ; the introduction of the Law of Limitation has also conduced to bring many suits before the Courts during the past year, while the increased jurisdiction of the Munsiffs during the latter part of the year, has tended to increase the number of suits on their files, without proportionally reducing the work of the Zillah Courts. The number of original suits instituted, decided, and pending for the year under report, is shewn in the Appendix.

Criminal Justice.

266. In the criminal branch of judicial administration there has been steady progress, resulting from the measures reported in the review for the previous year. A statement of criminal cases pending, filed, and disposed of in the Criminal Courts duringt he year 1041 is given in the Appendix.

Police.

267. The statistics of the Police operations indicate considerable energy in the superintendence, and an improvement in the efficiency of this department. Much has of late been done in increasing salaries in the several branches of administration, but the great increase which would be entailed by the re-organization of the Police has hitherto prevented the adoption of a measure, the importance of which has been fully recognized, and is evidenced by the returns, which shew that numerous charges, involving bribery and corrupt practices, are brought against this class of servants in connection with their public duty, the charges of this nature being more numerous in proportion to the smallness of the salaries drawn by the offenders.

Jails.

268. The sanitary condition of the Jails has remained stationary during the year ; the rate of mortality was four and a half per cent., the same as in the two previous years.

Revenue.

269. The land revenue amounted to Rupees 16,40,000, a result which, considering the large reduction of taxation, noticed in the report of the previous year, is very satisfactory, as shewing the elasticity of this branch of income. A comparative statement of Revenue collections and disbursements, during the past two years, is given in the Appendix. The enfranchisement of the extensive landed tenures called "Sirkar-pattum," or Crown lands, has produced most beneficial results, evidenced by the extensive sales, the value of which is estimated at about five lacs of Rupees, which have taken place in consequence of Sirkar-pattum lands having been declared to be saleable and transferrable property, subject to the jurisdiction of the ordinary Courts.

No progress has been made in the long contemplated measure for the re-assessment of garden lands.

Customs.

270. The Customs Revenue has been materially affected by the interportal arrangements between these States and British India, which were in operation during two months only of the previous year. The receipts were Rupees 2,50,805 against Rupees 3,78,213 in the previous year; the falling off, reduced by the amount of Rupees 40,000 guaranteed by the British Government, is thus about Rupees 87,000. This falling off is mainly attributable to the continued and general stagnation of trade.

Salt.

271. The raising of the monopoly price of salt to that prevailing in British India, has produced an increase of revenue of one and a half lacs of Rupees, though there was a falling off in the consumption of about three and a half per cent. Improvements have been made in the arrangements for the manufacture and storage of salt.

Forests.

272. In the Forest department all compulsory labor has been done away with during the year. Some attention has been given to planting, but on a small scale. A few chinchona trees have been planted out in different parts of the forests as an experiment.

Chinchona and Tea.

273. The Chinchona and Tea plantations have been somewhat extended, and continue to progress very favorably. Some of the larger chinchona trees have attained the height of eight to ten feet, and a girth of about eight to ten inches. It is not intended to form extensive plantations, as a speculation on the part of the Sirkar, but to confine operations to such a limited extent as shall form a centre for dissemination. The tea is pronounced to be of such a quality, if properly manufactured, as to take a fair place in the market among ordinary Indian teas.

TRAVANCORE.

Coffee cultivation.

274. There is an increase in the area of land under coffee cultivation. Considerable progress has been made in the demarcation and survey of the lands, and the definition of rights. The long pending dispute with the Pooniat Chief, in regard to a part of the Peermade tract has happily now been adjusted. The Planters will be thus relieved of uncertainty in their tenure of lands, by being brought into a position to hold them direct from the Sirkar.

Education.

275. Steady progress continues to be made in the Educational department. A higher or collegiate branch of the High School was established last year under a gentleman from the Edinburgh University, and has been of great advantage. The demand for education cannot be met even by the existing arrangements, and it is proposed to have a preparatory branch attached to the High School.

The Law classes, both English and Vernacular, in connection with the High School, have been well attended, and are now beginning to furnish better qualified subordinates in the Judicial department.

In the District Schools (English) there has been progress in efficiency and in the numbers of the pupils.

The important measure of establishing Vernacular schools throughout the country, noticed last year, is beginning to come into operation. There will be a central school at Trevandrum, and thirty or more in different localities, which will be supervised by a Director of Vernacular Education, and two Inspectors. To supply qualified teachers, a Vernacular Normal School has been formed. As there are few school books in the Malayalam language, a Committee has been constituted to translate and compile works for the purpose.

Female education at Trevandrum continues to receive the patronage and hearty support of His Highness the Maharajah. Besides the arrangements for the instruction of females of the higher classes, a general school, on a systematic plan, is about to be formed under the superintendence of a lady from England, whose services have been engaged for the purpose.

Medical.

276. The opening of the new Civil Dispensary has been attended with most beneficial results. It is much appreciated, and freely resorted to by all classes, and much relief has thus been afforded to the sick and suffering under the able superintendence of His Highness' Durbar Physician, Dr. H. M. Ross. There is also a growing confidence in the Lying-in-Hospital.

The measure for establishing Hospitals in the several districts is in progress.

TRAVANCORE. Great improvement has taken place in the Vaccination department throughout Travancore, since the appointment of Dr. Pulney Andy as Superintendent.

Museum and Public gardens. 277. The Museum and Public Gardens, to the latter of which considerable zoological additions have been made, have afforded increased attraction for the public.

Public Works. 278. The Victoria Canal in the south has continued to absorb a considerable outlay. The formidable rocky barriers have, however, now been worked through, so as to admit of traffic passing through this section. The Peermade ghaut works have progressed, and steps are being taken to prosecute them with increased energy and efficiency. Several miles of the ghaut are now open for carts.

Much has been done in the restoration and repair of irrigation works in the south, since the enlargement of the department. District roads have also been formed to a considerable extent.

Satisfactory progress has been made in the large pile of buildings for the public offices. The project for completing the water communication between Trevandrum and Cochin, by overcoming the formidable barrier at Wurkully by tunnelling and open cuttings, has been pronounced by the Government to be both feasible and highly desirable, and an early commencement will be made in the undertaking.

The vigorous prosecution of public works in the different parts of the country, greatly mitigated the distress experienced in the past season of scarcity. Although the prices of the necessaries of life rose quite as high as in the famine year of 1860, the same disastrous consequences were not felt, owing in a great measure to the employment afforded by the Department Public Works, and to the abolition of forced labor.

Finances. 279. The finances of the State shew a remarkable elasticity. Notwithstanding the large increase of expenditure, in salaries and pensions and on public works, the reduction of taxation and the loss incurred in the Customs duty, under the interportal arrangements, the balance sheet is most favorable, the receipts being Rupees 44,80,634, and the disbursements Rupees 43,07,644. The greater part of the surplus may be said to accrue from the increase of the price of salt to the standard in British India, but the expenditure has been more than met by the ordinary sources of revenue.

Political. 280. The investiture of His Highness the Maharajah at Madras in February last, as a Knight Grand Commander of the Order of the Star of India, will be a memorable event in the annals of Travancore. The occasion was one that has tended to cement the cordial relation between this Native State and the British Government. TRAVANCORE.

The investiture of His Highness' Dewan, Madava Row, as a Knight Commander of the Order of the Star of India, in recognition of his able administration of the affairs of the State, under the enlightened policy of the Maharajah, has been fully appreciated as a well deserved honor.

281. Improvement has been made in the High Court of Appeal by the selection of a qualified first Judge. Similar measures for the improvement of the other Courts have been commenced, but not completed. COCHIN. Civil and Criminal Justice.

The scale of punishments laid down for offences under the Penal Code has been adopted in the Criminal Courts. The jurisdiction of the Munsiffs has been extended as in Travancore.

The business of the Civil Courts has considerably increased, owing in a great measure to the introduction of the Civil Procedure Code. A measure is about to be introduced for expediting the course of procedure in commitments by the lower Courts, giving to the latter also extended powers.

It will be seen from the statement given in Appendix, that the aggregate number of original suits filed is 1,214 more than in the preceding year.

282. The Jails continue to prove healthy, as they have for many years past, notwithstanding arrangements which are not in accordance with modern sanitary science, and the frequent prevalence of epidemics in the neighbourhood of the Jails. It is, however, in contemplation to enlarge and improve one of the Jails, and to re-construct the other. Jails.

283. The Land Revenue keeps up to the usual standard. A statement of receipts and disbursements, for the year under report, is given in the Appendix. Land Revenue.

284. The clearing and planting of coffee lands progresses, and some of the estates will come under assessment in the next year. Coffee.

285. Under the recent commercial convention, by which the trade with British India and Travancore was relieved of duty, the customs revenue has almost disappeared, the collection at the Sirkar ports being only Rupees 263. Customs.

The guarantee of the Government, amounting to Rupees 1,10,500 per annum, was paid for the eleven months falling due in the official year.

COCHIN.

Salt.

286. The Salt revenue has received a violent disturbance by the raising of the selling price to that in British India under the terms of the convention. Formerly, as salt was sold much cheaper in Cochin, large quantities were exported across the frontier into British India. This has now ceased, and the falling off is enormous, the sales being 34,000 maunds against 2,10,000 in the previous year, and the revenue Rupees 55,000 against Rupees 1,70,000, a deficiency of upwards of a lac of Rupees, or more than the guarantee paid by the Government under the arrangements above noticed. This deficiency has been mainly accounted for above, but it is supposed that much salt is clandestinely made along the extensive backwaters, and steps are being taken to suppress this illicit manufacture, and to increase the efficiency of the Salt department.

Education.

287. The progress in the High School at Ernacollum has been most satisfactory under the able management of the Master, Mr. A. F. Sealy. The number of pupils has increased, and might increase still further if the accommodation were sufficient. His Highness the Rajah has sanctioned the erection of a large substantial school-building to meet these requirements. A Hebrew school is kept up for the benefit of the Jews at Cochin, and a Sanscrit school at Trichoor. Some addition has been made to the English schools in the district.

Public Works.

288. The Shoranoor bridge, which has far advanced towards completion, is delayed by the iron work sent out being deficient for two bays. The girders for these have just arrived, and the work will be speedily completed. The bridge was opened this year by forming a temporary platform over the two bays. The progress has perhaps been slow, but the work appears to be most substantial, and thoroughly well executed.

Progress continues to be made in the improvement of the water communication between Trichoor and Cochin.

The railway scheme for a line from Shoranoor to Cochin has been under the favorable consideration of the Madras Railway Company and the Directors in England.

Narakal Port.

289. The Narakal port maintained its reputation as a safe harbour, when other parts of the coast were inaccessible in the monsoon. The number of vessels and tonnage having recourse to it have increased.

Finances.

290. The finances continue in a prosperous condition, the income having somewhat excedeed the expenditure, notwithstanding the increase of salaries and the continued large expenditure on public works.

CARNATIC.

291. The payment to Carnatic stipendiaries (including Jaghiredars) amounted, during the official year, i. e., from 1st May 1866 to 31st March 1867, to Rupees 5,37,701. Of this amount, Rupees 92,000 was drawn by His Highness Prince Azeem Jah Bahadoor, as arrears of his stipend from 1st May to 31st December 1866. His Highness' allowance having been increased to Rupees 3,00,000 per annum, which sum is to be drawn by the Prince from the Bank of Madras, his name has been erased from the Agency books.

The number of persons receiving pensions on the 1st April 1867 was 1,381. The lapses by death, &c., in 1866-67, exclusive of those who commuted their stipends, were ninety-one, and amounted, in the aggregate, to Rupees 10,800 for the eleven months under review.

Bonuses, to the amount of Rupees 49,255-13-6, were granted in commutation of 118 stipends, not exceeding Rupees 10 per mensem, amounting to Rupees 5,411 for the eleven months.

Petty claims against the estate of the late Nabob were settled to the amount of Rupees 9,983-2-5, and arrears of salary and pension, amounting to Rupees 6,900-4-1, were paid.

SECTION IX.—MILITARY.

Average strength of the Army.

292. A considerable decrease has taken place in the average strength of the Madras Army, European and Native, in the former from 16,077 in 1865-66 to 10,837; and in the latter from 32,986 in 1865-66 to 27,403, in the past year now under review.

Reduction in strength of British Corps.

293. The decrease in the European force is accounted for by the reduction, effected under the orders of the Home Government, in the numerical strength of British corps serving in India, to the extent of fifty-six men in each Regiment of Cavalry, and sixty men in each Regiment of Infantry.

Health of the Army.

294. The health of the Army, European and Native, has been less satisfactory during the year under review, than during the preceding year.

Comparative immunity from epidemic disease.

295. The comparative immunity of both European and Native Troops from epidemic diseases, which have seriously affected the health of the civil population throughout the Presidency, is however satisfactory, as indicating that due sanitary precautions have been taken and effectually carried out to protect the health of the Army.

General unhealthiness. European Force.

296. The general unhealthiness of the past year is, however, evidenced by the very marked increase in the ratio of admissions to strength among Europeans, which amounted to 145·85 per cent. (14·585 per mille) in 1866-67, against 111·6 per cent. (1·116 per mille) in 1865-66. Among Natives, the admissions to strength were 82·91 per cent. (829·1 per mille), against 61·91 (619·1 per mille) in 1865-66. The increased rate of sick was most marked throughout the whole of the European Troops, except in Pegu, but especially so in the Ceded Districts and Hyderabad Subsidiary Force. The rate per mille of sick treated to strength shews the following startling results:—

| Division. | 1865-66. | 1866-67. | Increase. |

HEALTH.
Native Army.

297. Among the Native Troops also, a coincident higher sick rate prevailed, this too being most marked in the Hyderabad Force, and the Troops in Mysore and the Ceded Districts. This vast increase of sickness was followed by a corresponding, but not entirely proportionate increase in mortality. The increase is shewn below :—

| | Europeans. | Natives. |
|---|---|---|
| 1865-66... ... ... ... ... | 15 per mille. | 9 per mille. |
| 1866-67... ... ... ... ... | 18 per mille. | 12 per mille. |

Prevalence of Cholera.

298. The large Native towns, Bellary and Kurnool, were visited by cholera in an epidemic form, but there were singularly few casualties among the Troops at those stations from this cause. In the whole Army, only twenty Europeans and 102 Natives died of this disease.

Small Pox.

299. The total number of admissions from small-pox was as follows : Europeans 18, and Natives 162 ; of the former four, and of the latter two cases proved fatal. Small-pox, modified by previous vaccination, was observed in many of the cases treated.

The table appended shews the extent of sickness and mortality among the Troops, European and Native, during the official year 1866-67 :—

HEALTH.

Lock Hospitals.

300. The operations of Lock Hospitals have been generally calculated to lessen the number of admissions from venereal diseases, in the European Army.

Women treated.

301. The return of women treated in these institutions shews, as in 1865-66, a slight diminution in numbers, as appears from the following table :—

| | No. treated. | Died. | Deaths to sick treated. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1864-65... | 1,877 | 13 | 0·6 per cent. |
| 1865-66... | 1,641 | 10 | 0·6 „ |
| 1866-67... | 1,571 | 8 | 0·5 „ |

It is satisfactory to note a slight decrease in the rate per cent. of deaths to sick treated. The rates of admission to strength of Europeans in 1865 were 270 per mille, and in 1866, 234 per mille, shewing a decrease of thirty-six per mille.

It is hoped that both this decrease, and that in the number of women treated, are due to the successful operations of the Lock Hospitals, but they are still susceptible of much improvement, and the enforcement of a rigid system of control, under the provisions of the Military Cantonment Act, will no doubt do much in time to preserve the British soldier from this most loathsome disease.

Staff Corps admissions.

302. Under Lord Cranborne's Despatch to the Government of India, dated 8th August 1866, No. 159, throwing open the Staff Corps to all Officers of the Indian Cavalry and Infantry, applying for admission within a specified date, except those who entered the service under the new conditions, 396 Officers have joined the Corps, viz. :—

| Lieut. Colonels. | Majors. | Captains. | Lieutenants. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 45 | 77 | 119 | 155 |

Several of these Officers, by availing themselves of the privilege, gained two steps of substantive rank, and others one step.

Discontinuance of European Non-Commissioned Staff in Native Army.

303. Under instructions from the Government of India, the European Non-Commissioned Staff (Serjeant Majors and Quarter Master Serjeants) attached to the Native Army, is to be gradually dispensed with, as vacancies occur, and means are found for otherwise employing the present incumbents.

Relief of Madras by Bengal Troops at Saugor.

304. A Corps of Madras Cavalry and one of Native Infantry, employed in the Saugor district under the Bengal Government, having been recently relieved by Bengal Troops, Arcot has now been re-occupied as a Military Station by one of the Cavalry Corps.

Withdrawal of Military Establishments from the Straits.

305. Consequent on arrangements made for the transfer, from 1st April 1867, of the Straits Settlements to the administrative and financial control of the Imperial Government, through the Colonial department, the two Batteries of Artillery, two Regiments of Native Infantry and Military Establishments, furnished to those Settlements from this Presidency, are to be withdrawn thereform.

Barrack Masters.

306. With the sanction of the Government of India, Barrack Masters have been appointed to the undermentioned stations, with effect from 1st January 1867, and rules have been laid down for the guidance of the department :—

Bangalore, Secunderabad, Kamptee, Bellary.

Administrative Staff—Medical Department.

307. The Government of India having promulgated certain arrangements for the re-organization of the administrative staff of the British and Indian Medical Services for the three Presidencies, the allotment for the Madras Presidency, and the circles of superintendence, are as follows :—

British Medical Service.

One Inspector General.

Three Deputy Inspectors General for Presidency, Bangalore, and Secunderabad.

One Staff Surgeon Major for Burmah.

Indian Medical Department.

One Inspector General.

Six Deputy Inspectors General for Southern Division, with the addition of Malabar and Wynaad ; Mysore and Ceded Districts ; Hyderabad ; Nagpore ; Pegu ; Presidency and Northern District.

Quarters to Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers at the Presidency.

308. The attention of Government having been drawn to the objectionable manner in which the Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers of the Ordnance Department at the Presidency were lodged, in consequence of the rate of house-rent granted to them being quite inadequate to secure them suitable accommodation in a good and convenient locality, and necessitating their residence in insalubrious dwellings in Black Town, it has been resolved to erect public quarters for them on the north-western esplanade of the fortress. A portion of the buildings, consisting of six blocks, of two sets of quarters each, for the men and families, are being completed, and the provision of accommodation for the remainder will follow. Meanwhile, the Government of India has sanctioned an increased rate of house-rent, viz., fifteen Rupees a month to the classes* concerned, those Non-Commissioned

* Sub-Conductors, Assistant Supervisors, Assistant Overseers, and Staff Serjeants.

Officers, whose aggregate receipts may exceed seventy-five Rupees a month, not being required to forego the usual subsistence allowance for their families.

Station Butchers.

309. The experiment of appointing Station Butchers at Bangalore and Secunderabad, to superintend the slaughtering of cattle for rations (noticed in the Administration Report for 1864-65), having proved successful, an extension of the system has been sanctioned to all other stations where European Troops are located.

Gymnasia.

310. The introduction of a system of Military gymnastics among Her Majesty's British Troops serving in India, having been sanctioned by the Government of India, arrangements have been made for erecting gymnasia in this Presidency, in the first instance at Bangalore and Secunderabad.

312. On the 10th September 1866 the Director of the Madras Military Fund made over the assets, liabilities, and management of that institution to Government, in trust for the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Bonus Compensation Committee.

313. In pursuance of instructions from Her Majesty's Government and the Government of India, a Committee has been appointed in this Presidency to investigate claims of Madras Officers to compensation for any bonus paid by them up to 18th February 1861, to assist their Regimental seniors to retire.

Relief to Commissariat Contractors.

314. Owing to the unfavourable condition of the crops, and the unprecedented high prices of all articles of food in 1866, and the consequent inability of the Commissariat Contractors at certain Stations to fulfil their engagements, exceptional measures of relief were extended to them by the return of the whole or part of their securities.

Scarcity at Cuttack.

315. To meet the pressing wants of the Troops at Cuttack, arising from the scarcity of grain during the year, measures were adopted for importing supplies from Calcutta and other quarters, to be kept up for issue to the Troops and their families, and to the registered camp followers and pensioners, until the cessation of the emergency. Further, to alleviate the distress prevailing among the Commissariat and Hospital servants and Store Lascars at certain stations, a temporary famine allowance was granted to them, with reference to the smallness of their wages.

Famine allowance.

Re-establishment of the Amrut Mahal.

316. Since the discontinuance, in 1860, of the connection of Government with the cattle breeding establishment formerly maintained in Mysore, the cattle obtained for the public service by purchase, have, in every respect, been inferior to the splendid Mysore breed previously supplied, and have been procured not only with difficulty, but also at greatly enhanced prices. The importance of securing the preservation of the old breed, and of reducing the cost of the supply required for the public service having been fully recognized, it has been determined, with the sanction of the Government of India, and the concurrence of the Mysore Government, to re-establish the cattle farm, this Government providing the stock of cattle, and the Mysore State the grazing grounds. The purchase of stock has been limited for the present to 4,000 cows and 100 bulls.

Camel Sheds.

317. In order to diminish the great mortality reported to have occurred among the camels maintained at certain stations of the Army for the conveyance of the camp equipage of the Troops, sheds have been authorized for protecting these valuable animals from the injurious effects of exposure, the estimated saving in casualties alone being considered far more than equivalent to the cost of shelter.

System of audit and account somewhat modified.

318. The system of audit and account has been somewhat modified in the course of the year, in pursuance of instructions from the Government of India.

Eleven months only included in 1866-67.

319. Consequent on the change in the commencement of the official year, from the 1st May to the 1st April, a period of eleven months only is included in 1866-67.

Outstanding retrenchments in the Pay Department.

321. The outstanding retrenchments in the Pay Department on the 31st March 1867, amounted to Rupees 5,806-2-10, with an annual expenditure of 230 lakhs.

SECTION X.—EDUCATIONAL.

Number of Schools and Pupils.

332. The number of Colleges and Schools connected with the Department of Public Instruction on the 31st March 1867 was 1,386, with an attendance of 51,188 pupils; the corresponding numbers for the previous official year having been 1,261 and 45,056. There was thus an increase of 125 schools and 6,062 pupils during the year under review. The increase in the number of schools was entirely in private schools. The number of Government schools was diminished by three; five Government Schools having been closed, while only two were opened during the year. There was, however, an increase of 591 pupils in the attendance at Government Schools.

Classification of Schools.

333. The following is a classification of the schools with reference to the agency by which they are managed:—

| | Number of schools. | | Number of pupils. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | In 1865-66. | In 1866-67. | In 1865-66. | In 1866-67. |

| Schools supported by a rate, most of which received also grants-in-aid ... ... | 79 | 95 | 1,951 | 2,802 |
| Private schools receiving grants-in-aid ... ... ... | 696 | 784 | 27,351 | 30,893 |
| Private schools under simple inspection ... ... ... | 377 | 401 | 6,320 | 7,398 |

or, with reference to the standard of instruction imparted in them,

| | Number of schools. | | Number of pupils. | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | In 1865-66. | In 1866-67. | In 1865-66. | In 1866-67. |
| First class schools ... ... | 28 | 31 | 6,651 | 8,030 |
| Middle class schools ... ... | 237 | 280 | 15,821 | 17,976 |
| Lower class schools ... ... | 842 | 985 | 16,909 | 19,510 |
| Girls' schools... ... ... | 139 | 75 | 3,816 | 3,425 |
| Normal schools ... ... | 11 | 11 | 1,428 | 1,619 |
| Schools and colleges for special or professional instruction... | 4 | 4 | 431 | 558 |

Adverting to an apparent falling off in the number of aided Mission Schools in Tinnevelly, the Director of Public Instruction explains that it is due merely to mixed schools for boys and girls having been returned for 1866-67 as single Institutions, while in the Returns for 1865-66 they were reckoned as separate schools. This, it is presumed, accounts for the apparent decrease in the number of girls' schools.

334. The following is a comparative statement of the distribution of the pupils under instruction, at the close of the two past years, according to race :— Distribution of Pupils.

Of the last mentioned sum, Rupees 4,92,579-3-11 were disbursed from Imperial funds, and Rupees 1,16,090-8-10 from Local funds.

The Director explains that the large number of candidates who presented themselves at the Matriculation Examination is partly due to the fact that the year under review was the last in which the original minimum of one-fourth of the total marks was to be accepted in the English language. Hereafter, no candidate is to be allowed to pass who does not secure one-third of the aggregate marks in this subject. The increase of seventy-seven in the number of passed candidates is satisfactory, and especially in the case of passed candidates from private institutions, which, at the last examination, was, for the first time, in excess of the number of passed candidates from Government institutions. There has also been a very satisfactory increase in the number of successful candidates at the First Arts Examination, which rose from 76 in 1865-66 to 116 in 1866-67. The Presidency College is, as yet, the only institution which can be said to supply successful candidates for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, but it is anticipated that, before very long, the Government Provincial College at Combaconum and the Central Institution of the Free Church of Scotland at Madras will educate up to the standard of that Degree.

* Of these, one was previously educated at Battersea Training College, and the other at the Madras Normal School.

SCHOOLS.

Presidency College.

338. The increase in the numerical strength of the Senior Department of the Presidency College, which, at the close of the official year, contained eighty-nine students, against eighty-one in the preceding year, was less than it otherwise would have been, owing to the advancement of the Provincial School at Combaconum to the grade of a Provincial College. Of the eighty-nine college students, only forty belonged to Madras and the adjoining district. The remaining forty-nine came from other districts, the largest numbers being from Tanjore and Malabar. The results of the College examinations were generally satisfactory.

Medical and Civil Engineering Colleges.

339. The reports on the Medical and Civil Engineering Colleges do not call for any special notice.

Government Schools of the higher class.

340. The Provincial School at Combaconum, which has been raised to the grade of a Provincial College, is noticed by the Director with the Provincial Schools, two full years being still required to educate students up to the B. A. standard. It contains 42 students in the Senior Department, and 333 pupils in the School Department. The report on this school is, as usual, very satisfactory. The Provincial School at Bellary appears to be doing fairly. In regard to that at Calicut, although the attendance is good, the Director states that the attainments of the pupils are not sufficiently high: he particularly notices deficiencies in the English and vernacular languages. In the latter subject, which was unfavourably noticed in the report for 1865-66, there seems to have been little or no improvement during the past year. At Mangalore, a Provincial School has been lately established, but is still in an undeveloped state.

Zillah Schools.

341. Of the Zillah Schools, those at Chittoor and Madura appear to have been the most successful. The Report on the Cuddalore School is again very unfavourable. The School at Berhampore suffered much from the famine, and those at Rajahmundry and Kurnool from out-breaks of cholera, which occurred at both stations in July and August last year: the Head Master of the Kurnool School, Mr. Greathurst, a zealous and efficient teacher, was carried off by the disease. It appears that, with the exception of the districts of Nellore and Coimbatore, every district in the Presidency is now provided with a school ranked in the higher class, or, in other words, which has a staff of teachers competent to educate pupils up to the standard of the University Matriculation Examination. There are ten such schools in the Madras District, three in Tanjore, two in Trichinopoly, two in Malabar, and two in the Kistna District; in the remaining Districts, except Nellore and Coimbatore, one each. The Director has been instructed to impress upon the Managers of the Anglo-Vernacular Schools at the two stations last mentioned, the necessity of making every effort in their power to raise the standard of those schools, and to point out to them the best mode of doing so, assuring them of the largest amount of aid which it is open to them to obtain under the grant-in-aid rules. It is observed that, during the year under review, the Government grant-in-aid to the Free Church Mission School at Nellore amounted to only Rupees 987-13-4, while the aggregate expenditure was Rupees 4,535. SCHOOLS.

342. Of private institutions of the first class, the Church Missionary Society's School at Masulipatam, the Central School of the Free Church of Scotland's Mission at Madras, the Doveton Protestant College, and the Gospel Society's High School at Tanjore, deserve special mention. Of the first of these, the Inspector remarks that "it is in better working order than it was last year, and promises, under the able superintendence of the present Principal, to reach a higher state of efficiency than it has ever previously attained." Three students from this institution passed the First Examination in Arts, and seven the Matriculation Examination. The Free Church Institution at Madras has made considerable progress: eighteen of its students passed the First Arts Examination, and ten the Matriculation Examination. It is now the largest school in the Presidency, containing, at the close of the year, 737 pupils on the rolls, with an average attendance of 668. The establishment of a first class school at Palghaut, supported partly by a rate levied under the Madras Education Act, and partly by a Government grant-in-aid, with a roll of 409 pupils, is an important and interesting event in the educational progress of the year. Private Institutions of the first class.

343. The returns shew a satisfactory increase in the number of middle class schools, which now number 280, with an attendance of 17,976 pupils. The increase in the number of schools, amounting to forty-five, is distributed over the twelve districts noted in the margin, the greatest number of new schools being in the South Arcot district, Middle class schools.

The Government Schools of the middle class appear, in most districts, to be doing fairly. Their number has not increased. Indeed, as has been already observed, the aggregate number of Government Schools was less by three than in the preceding year. In regard to Ganjam, where the Talook Schools are still in a backward condition, both as regards the numbers in attendance and the attainments of the pupils, the Acting Inspector of Schools suggests the expediency of employing a larger number of Uriyas in the public service, with the view of affording a stimulus to the education of that race. Mr. Grigg states that, at present, the Uriyas, who form a third of the population of the district, are practically excluded from the public service. The Government have no doubt that the comparative paucity of Uriya employés in Government employment is mainly, if not entirely, attributable to the educational deficiencies of the Uriyas.

The Government notice with satisfaction the enlightened efforts which the Maharajah of Vizianagram is making to raise the standard of the Samasthanum School. They regret to learn that the Zemindar and Dewan of Bobbili have not manifested a similar interest in the progress of education in that Zemindary. The interest evinced by the Zemindars of Juggunpettah and Pittapur and Mundasa in the schools in their respective Zemindaries is very creditable to them.

Schools of the lower class.

344. The number of schools of the lower class, connected with the department, has risen from 842, with an attendance of 16,909 pupils, to 985, with an attendance of 19,510 pupils. Under the head of "Female Schools" most of which would come under the designation of "Lower Class Schools," there has been an apparent decrease of sixty-four schools and 391 pupils; but this decrease, as has been already remarked, is rather apparent than real, the returns furnished for the year under review having enabled the Director to separate purely girls' schools from schools with a mixed attendance of boys and girls. It appears that, besides the seventy-five schools for females alone, there are 118 schools with a mixed attendance, the girls therein numbering 1,213.

The increase in the number of elementary schools under inspection is almost entirely attributable to the extension of the scheme for improving indigenous schools on the payment-for-results system, which is making rapid progress in the districts of Coimbatore and Nellore. It was directed some time ago that this system should be applied to every district in the Presidency, and with this view application has been made to the Supreme Government to sanction an addition to the staff of Deputy Inspectors and Inspecting Schoolmasters. The Governor in Council has resolved, in anticipation of the sanction of the Government of India, to authorize the Director to appoint the three additional Deputy Inspectors and eighteen Inspecting Schoolmasters proposed in his letter of the 14th August 1866. The salaries of the additional Officers will be fixed at such sums, not exceeding Rupees 100 per mensem in the case of the Deputy Inspectors, and Rupees 35 per mensem in the case of the Inspecting Schoolmasters, as the Director may think proper. It appears from the annual reports of the Inspector of Schools for the second division, and of the Deputy Inspector in charge of Malabar and Canara, that both those officers are prepared to introduce the system into their respective divisions as soon as the requisite agency can be made available. The Director has been requested to insert in his annual report a brief, but comprehensive, review of the working of this system in each district to which it has been applied. Henceforward, the grants will be made in conformity with the revised schedules sanctioned in October last, which will be applicable to all schools aided on the payment-for-results plan. SCHOOLS.

345. The report on the Madras Normal School is not more favorable than that of last year. The Principal, however, has resigned since the close of the year, and the Government hope that under the management of the new Principal this important Institution will regain the position which it formerly occupied. Until this is the case, it will be inspected frequently by the Inspector of Normal Schools, and occasionally by the head of the department. A special report on its condition and progress will be submitted by the Director at the close of the official year. The Normal Schools at Trichinopoly, Vellore, and Cannanore, appear to have done well, especially that at Trichinopoly, the report on which is most favorable. The Normal School at Vizagapatam was less successful, but the Director considers that the comparative ill-success of this school is in a great measure attributable to the weakness of the staff of teachers, and to the unsatisfactory nature of the arrangements under which the professional training was carried on. The latter defect has been removed by the erection of a commodious building for the Institution ; and the former, it is hoped, will be remedied at an early date, an application for sanction for a considerable increase to the staff of teachers in the Government Normal Normal Schools.

Schools in the Provinces having been submitted to the Supreme Government some time ago.

Madras Education Act.

346. The establishment of schools supported by a rate under the provisions of the Madras Education Act is advancing but slowly. The number had risen from seventy-nine at the close of 1865-66, to ninety-five at the close of the year under review, but it has since been necessary to close eleven of the schools in the Godavery District, it having been ascertained that the assent of the inhabitants to the application of the Act had not been really voluntary. It is evident that the Act is not well adapted for being successfully applied to small villages, though well suited to large villages and towns in which there are intelligent persons to act as Commissioners.

Grant-in-aid system.

347. The Government consider the working of the grant-in-aid system during the year under review to have been, on the whole, fairly satisfactory. The number of aided schools rose from 775, with an attendance of 27,381 pupils, to 879, with an attendance of 35,260 pupils. The grant-in-aid expenditure for the official year, which included only eleven months, was Rupees 1,21,271, which, for twelve months, would give an expenditure of Rupees 1,32,295. Of the schools, 15 were schools of the higher class, with 3,657 pupils.

154 were schools of the middle class, with 10,913 „
706 were schools of the lower class, with 20,228 „
4 were Normal schools, with 462 „

The expenditure for the eleven months was distributed as follows :—

| | RS. | A. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| One college... ... ... ... | 4,845 | 5 | 8 |
| Schools of the higher class ... ... | 34,051 | 15 | 1 |
| Do. middle class ... ... | 54,037 | 2 | 11 |
| Do. lower class ... ... | 17,118 | 7 | 0 |
| Female schools... ... ... ... | 4,947 | 10 | 5 |
| Normal schools ... ... ... | 6,271 | 5 | 4 |

The average grants made to schools of the higher class amounted to Rupees 2,893 per school ; those to middle class schools, to Rupees 351 per school ; and those to schools of the lower class, to Rupees 31-5-0 per school—the average expenditure from all sources, per school, in each case having been as follows :—

| | RS. | A. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|
| For schools of the higher class ... | 8,647 | 9 | 9 |
| Do. middle class ... | 1,660 | 2 | 7 |
| Do. lower class ... | 115 | 10 | 6 |

The attention of Government has been directed to the unduly small proportions which, after making every allowance for the fact that the individual grants to the elementary village schools must necessarily be small, the entire expenditure on elementary education bears to the aggregate rant-in-aid expenditure, and which, in the several grades of schools receiving aid, the Government grant bears to the aggregate expenditure from all sources.

TEST EXAMINATIONS.

Uncovenanted Civil Service Examinations.

348 Four Examinations were held by the Commissioner during the year 1866-67, as follows :—

1. The Special Test Examination in August 1866.
2. A modified Special Test Examination in September 1866.
3. The General Test Examination in February 1867.
4. A second modified Special Test Examination in February 1867.

Special Test Examinations.

349. 1,536 Candidates (including Police officers) were admitted to the Special Test Examination in 1866. The per-centage of successful candidates in the principal tests in 1865-66 (inclusive of those who having failed in the higher grade were passed for the lower) was as follows :—

| Tests. | 1865. | 1866. | Number actually passed in 1866. |
|---|---|---|---|
| I. A | 76 | 48 | 45 |
| II. A | 79 | 42 | 109 |

| II. B | 79 | 35 | 205 |
| III. A | 45 | 40 | 44 |
| III. B | 53 | 59 | 182 |
| VII. B | 87 | 52 | 176 |
| VIII. A | 29 | 29 | 119 |
| VIII. B. | 27 | 66 | 143 |
| VII. A | ... | ... | 4 |

The want of success in Civil and Criminal Laws, and in the higher grade of the Revenue Examination, as compared with the previous year, is owing to candidates having been this year, for the first time, prohibited, without exception, from passing the higher grades of tests in a vernacular, and having been required to pass in the Law of Evidence in both grades of the Law tests, whether the Test Books had been translated in the vernaculars or not. The reason for the want of success in the lower grade of the Translation Test is that, under the new Rules, it is made part of the necessary qualifications for the offices of Moonsiff, Deputy Collector, Tahsildar, &c., and that candidates being allowed to enter for this test without paying any additional fee, many of them entered without any reasonable chance of passing.

TEST EXAMINATIONS.

The improvement in the lower grade of the Revenue Test, and in Precis writing, is very satisfactory.

Police Test.

350. One hundred and eighty-six candidates presented themselves for the Police Test, of whom twenty-seven were pronounced qualified for the post of Police Inspector.

General results of the Special Test.

351. Taking into account the numerous changes which have been introduced, the Special Test Examination of 1866 shews as satisfactory results as any of those previously held. The severity of Government in dealing with the case of the Salem candidates in 1865, on the occasion on which it was discovered that the papers had been tampered with, has had the full effect calculated upon in repressing the tendency to malpractices on the part of Examiners, and owing to the precautions observed in the preparation of the papers in the Commissioner's Office, and to the care of the Superintendents, no hint of the papers set this year, appears to have got abroad.

Modified Special Test.

352. The third modified Special Test Examination, held in September 1866, resulted in the success of seven out of the seventeen candidates. In the fourth Examination, held in February 1867, six out of the twenty-three candidates were successful.

General Test.

353. The General Test Examination was held in February 1867. Much greater caution is required with reference to this examination than with regard to the Special Test, as a much larger number of candidates are interested, and as the papers, if seen, are much more easily comprehended and remembered. The papers were put into type under the eye of fhe Secretary to the Commissioner, and struck off under the superintendence of the Manager of the office, with complete success.

The number of candidates registered and examined, and the relative proportion of successful to unsuccessful candidates, is given below, shewing that the number examined this year is larger than it ever has been before, and that the per-centage of successful candidates is greater than in 1865 or 1866 :—

|---|---|
| Registered ... ... ... ... | 2,776 |
| Examined ... ... ... ... | 2,588 |
| Passed ... ... ... ... | 891 |
| Proportion per cent. of passed to examined. | 34 |

BENGAL SECRETARIAT LIBRARY

In 1866, 2,394 were registered, and 2,227 were examined; and 732, or 32 per cent. of those examined, were successful. TEST EXAMINATIONS.

The following table shews the agency by which the candidates were instructed:—

| Instructing agency. | Anglo-Vernacular Branch. | English Branch. | Vernacular Branch. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Government Schools... ... | 135 | 112 | 103 | 350 |
| Schools receiving Grants-in-aid. | 106 | 135 | 60 | 301 |

354. The steady increase in the business transacted in the Commissioner's Office necessitated great changes in the Office establishment during the year under review. The following scale of pay and establishment was sanctioned by Government in October 1866, subject to the orders of the Supreme Government:— Commissioner's Office. Changes in Establishment.

1 Manager at Rupees 200 per mensem.
1 Clerk „ 60 do.
1 Moochee „ 15 do.
2 Peons „ 6 each,

and in November following the sanction of the Government of India was accorded to this scale; the Secretary's pay being at the same time raised from Rupees 100 to Rupees 250, on the stipulation that the establishment should not, exclusive of the Secretary's salary, entail any expense on Government. The Secretary to the Commissioner was also directed to undertake the duties of the Secretary to the Committee for the Examination of Assistants, the remuneration for which office had been reduced from Rupees 300 to Rupees 100 per mensem.

355. The receipts during the year under review amounted to Rupees 21,261; the disbursements, inclusive of the Secretary's pay and all costs of establishment, to Rupees 17,938-14-0, shewing a balance in favour of Government of Rupees 3,322-2-0. Receipts and charges.

Nothing shews more clearly the rapid increase in the sphere embraced by the examinations, than the progressive increase in the sums paid as fees by candidates. The rates have been unchanged during the four years 1863, 64, 66, 67, but the amount realized by fees has increased from Rupees 9,879 to Rupees 31,261.

SECTION XI.—ECCLESIASTICAL.

Number of Clergymen in the Diocese.

356. At the close o fthe official year under report, there were 168 clergymen in the Diocese. Of these, forty were clergymen on the Madras Establishment, and fourteen who received grants from Government for ministering to congregations not supplied with Chaplains; fifty-seven were European and Eurasian Missionaries, and fifty-two Native clergymen. Five clergymen were engaged in scholastic duties. One vacancy, caused by retirement, occurred among the Chaplains, and three Junior Chaplains were appointed during the year.

Ordination.

357. The Bishop held one Ordination, in Madras, on the 17th March 1867, when three priests and seven deacons were ordained, the former being Europeans and Eurasians; of the latter two were Europeans, and five Natives.

Confirmations.

358. The number of persons confirmed during the year was as follows:—Males, 222; Females, .226; total, 448; of whom 208 were Native Christians.

Consecration.

359. One Church, and one burial ground, both at Rajahmundry, were consecrated during the year.

Stations.

360. A new chaplaincy, that of Berar, has been created, the Chaplain being located at Ellichpore, the chief Military station of the district. Mysore and Mercara have been restored to the rank of Chaplains' stations, and a resident clergyman has been appointed to Madura.

Visitations.

361. The Bishop made a short visitation tour to Nellore and Pulicat in October, and, after a Triennial Visitation held at St. George's Cathedral on the 1st November, visited Vellore, Coimbatore, and Calicut; thence, by Bombay, he proceeded to Berar, Aurungabad, Secunderabad, Bezwarrah, Masulipatam, Ellore, Rajahmundry, Cocanada, Samulcottah, Vizagapatam, Bimlipatam, Vizianagrum, Berhampore, and Chetterpore, returning to Madras on the 22nd February.

Church Buildings.

362. The new Church at Chudderghaut, Secunderabad, has been completed, having been raised entirely by voluntary contribution. At Berhampore, a Church has been for some time in progress, and is now nearly completed. The project for building a new Church at Ootacamund has been vigorously prosecuted. An eligible site has been purchased, and most of the money required has been raised. Plans for building a Church at Tellicherry, from funds bequeathed for that purpose by Mr. Brennen, in 1860, have been sanctioned, and the project taken in hand by the Chaplain of Cannanore.

SECTION XII.—MISCELLANEOUS.

MEDICAL.

Public health.

363. The health of the Civil population during the past year has been decidedly unsatisfactory. Cholera has been wide-spread, and epidemic fever has been prevalent in many parts of the Madras Presidency. Famine has also contributed to the number of deaths occurring during the year, and was itself, no doubt, the cause of much of the epidemic disease witnessed.

The districts of Madras and Ganjam, and the Collectorates of Bellary and Kurnool, were notably the places where epidemic disease and starvation prevailed.

Mortality from famine.

364. In certain talooks of the Bellary district, in the month of August, the mortality was at the rate of 300 per mille per annum of the estimated population. But this calculation must be taken with the reservation that the number of the population and that of deaths is by no means fully ascertained, and there will be no possible means of arriving at perfectly reliable data on these points, until an accurate census is periodically taken, and the mortuary tables of outlying districts are carefully compiled.

Town of Madras.

365. The health of the population of the town of Madras was far from satisfactory. In the first quarter of 1866 (not included in the period embraced within this report) the mortality among the inhabitants had been slightly less than the average of the previous ten years, and still smaller as compared with the average of the previous five years (1860 to 1865). But the second quarter of the year 1866 shewed a very considerable increase over the average of the preceding ten years. The third quarter was still worse, indicating an increase of 1,266 over the average of the previous ten years. The fourth quarter of the calendar year continued to shew a death-rate considerably in excess of that experienced previously, and the first quarter of 1867, concluding the official year now reported upon, shewed a further increase in mortality over the previous average. The actual numerical excess over previous years is shewn in the following table :—

MEDICAL.

| Years. | Mortality Returns. | Average number of deaths during previous years. | Number of deaths in the official year 1866-67 | Excess. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1866. | April to June ... ... | 2,522 (ten years.) | 2,926 | 404 |
| | July to September ... | 2,902 (ten years.) | 4,168 | 1,266 |
| | October to December. | 3,085 (five years.) | 3,827 | 742 |
| 1867. | January to March ..... | 2,985 (ten years.) | 3,715 | 730 |
| | Total... | 11,494 | 14,636 | 3,142 |

The most influential cause, promoting this great increase in mortality, was the universal distress prevalent in Madras and its neighbourhood. Poverty, dearth of employment, the unusual dearness of provisions, and the existence of cholera throughout the whole year, affected several classes of the population, who were beyond the field of operations of the Famine Relief Fund.

Working of Civil Dispensaries.

366. Civil Dispensaries continued to afford valuable aid to the destitute poor of the Presidency town and at up-country stations.

With few exceptions they are all self-supporting, but owing to the very insufficient funds at the disposal of local committees, the greatest care has to be exercised in the selection of cases, and hence among the in-patients treated, a considerable falling off has been witnessed during the past official year.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| In-Patients 1865-66... ... ... | | 23,154 |
| „ „ 1866-67... ... ... | | 16,574 |
| | Decrease... | 6,580 |

A considerable decrease has also been experienced among out-patients.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Out-patients 1865-66... ... ... | | 254,953 |
| „ „ 1866-67... ... ... | | 223,740 |
| | Decrease... | 31,213 |

The only possible way of explaining this decrease is, that the outlying population, not actually resident in the towns where these Dispensaries are situated, were, many of them, prostrated with fever, and from this cause and extreme poverty, were unable to resort to the Dispensaries, at which they had formerly applied for relief.

The funded capital of the Dispensaries is steadily increasing, and Government has recently issued orders calculated to promote an interest in these Institutions on the part of influential officials. From these orders, much good will probably eventuate.

The exigencies of the service have necessitated the appointment to the charge of some of these Dispensaries of Warrant Medical Officers, and it is possible that the absence of European supervision may have lessened the confidence of the poorer classes. MEDICAL.

The wide-spread distress prevalent throughout so many districts of this Presidency has lessened considerably the amount of monthly subscriptions, especially from members of the native community. But some remarkable instances of generosity on the part of native gentlemen, give reason to hope that they will henceforward assist more cordially in maintaining Institutions established chiefly for the benefit of their countrymen.

VACCINATION.

367. Notwithstanding the difficulties with which this department had to contend during the season under review, owing to the unhealthiness of the year, the prevalence of famine, and the consequent increase of disease, the results of the past year are, by no means, unsatisfactory.

368. The total number of persons vaccinated was 194,509, exclusive of those whose names appear in the Mysore Returns; the number of persons vaccinated in 1865 was 191,394. The average proportion of successful cases throughout the Presidency was 86·38, a result which, considering the exceptional nature of the season, and the fact that all doubtful cases, and cases which are not watched after the operation, are returned as unsuccessful, must be considered very satisfactory. Number of persons vaccinated.

These results are in great part owing to the exertions and good management of Dr. Shortt, who has, it appears, been generally ably assisted by his subordinates.

369. The department, as re-organized two years ago, appears to work well, but it is urged that the districts are too large for the Deputy Superintendents to supervise thoroughly, and that the staff of Vaccinators is inadequate. These representations will be duly considered when orders are passed on the proposal for increasing the staff of Vaccinators and number of Superintendents. Working of the Department.

Great interest has been evinced by the various officers of Government, and numerous independent gentlemen, in the promotion of Vaccine operations, and in making generally known the effects and method of those operations.

It is gratifying to remark, that the number of Vaccinators employed by Zemindars, Municipal Associations, and private individuals, is steadily increasing.

EMIGRATION.

Emigration to British Colonies.

370. There was a considerable decrease in emigration to the British Colonies during the year under review, as compared with the preceding year, only five ships, carrying 1,853 persons, having left Madras for the Mauritius, and one ship with 288 persons for Natal.

The decrease was not caused by paucity of applicants, the unusual drought prevalent during the year, and the consequent rise in the price of the necessaries of life, disposing numbers to emigrate to any of the Colonies; but the unfavorable nature of past seasons, and scarcity of money, precluded the Colonists from sending for extraneous labour, and the stream of emigration was diverted to the French Colonies.

The following table shews the number of emigrants that have left for the British Colonies, exclusive of Ceylon, during the last two years:—

| Years. | Men. | Women. | Boys. | Girls. | Infants. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1865-66. | 2,779 | 1,277 | 506 | 485 | 145 | 5,192 |
| 1866-67. | 1,085 | 524 | 266 | 235 | 31 | 2,141 |

The proportion of women to men has been as follows:—

To Mauritius... ... ... 50·5 per cent
„ Natal ... ... ... 36·5 „

Mortality on board ship.

371. In the five ships which left for the Mauritius, carrying 1,853 persons, only four deaths occurred, giving a per-centage of mortality of 0·22, or omitting from the general average one death from heart disease, a per-centage of 0·16 only.

In three ships there were no deaths.

Mortality at the Emigration Depôts.

372. Notwithstanding the dearness of food, and prevalence of sickness, especially cholera, in Black Town, and the crowded neighbourhood, the mortality in the depôts was less than might have been expected, twenty-one cases having occurred in the Mauritius depôt, chiefly among emigrants arriving from the interior. In the Natal depôt, which was open for a short time only, there were no deaths.

Accommodation in Depôts.

373. A question arose in June 1866, as to the amount of space to be allotted to emigrants in the depôt. Three covered sheds at the Mauritius depôt, built to hold 350 people, and reported by a Committee of Medical Officers to be capable of holding 421 persons, were reported by the Sanitary Commissioner to be sufficient for the accommodation of 128 emigrants only. Another depôt was, therefore, opened at Tondiarpett, and a reference made by the Agent to the Mauritius Government as to the increased accommodation, and consequent increase of expenditure. Under these circumstances, the Colonists determined to suspend operations for a time, and the services of the Agent were dispensed with. On a reference to the Home Government as to the space to be allotted to emigrants in depôts, it was decided that twenty-four square feet, with a height of twelve feet, should be allowed for each emigrant.

Number of Emigrants in Mauritius Depôt.

374. The following statement shews the numbers provided for in the Mauritius depôt, from May to September, when emigration was temporarily stopped :—

| Months. | Number in depôt, | No. of | | Remarks. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | Cases. | Deaths | |
| May ... ... ... | 369 to 570 | 14 | 3 | Of whom 2 were children. |
| June ... ... ... | 207 to 458 | 10 | 3 | Do. do. |
| July ... ... ... | 190 to 555 | 9 | 1 | Of cholera. |
| August ... ... | 465 to 479 | 28 | 6 | 5 of cholera, (2 children.) |
| September ... ... | 11 to 19 | 3 | 3 | 2 of diarrhœa, 1 of dysentery. |

Success of arrangements for emigration.

375. No complaints have been made against any of the Captains of ships employed. The arrangements made for the comfort of emigrants on board ship have met with the approval of the authorities in the Colonies, and the Surgeons in charge have, with one exception, been attentive in the execution of their duties.

Return Emigrants.

376. Five vessels arrived during the year from the Mauritius with 495 return emigrants, of whom seventy-two were children. There was no serious mortality on board any of these ships, except the "Indomitable," on which there were fifteen deaths among 151 passengers. A strict enquiry was instituted, and it was ascertained that the greater number of the passengers were invalids and aged persons.

Licenses to recruiters.

377. The number of licenses granted to recruiters for the Mauritius during the year was ten.

Collections and Expenditure.

378. The collections, on account of fees and licenses at Madras and in the districts, amounted to Rupees 1,860; the expenditure to Rupees 4,729.

EMIGRATION.

Emigration to Bengal.

379. Malpractices having been ascertained to exist in the collection and despatch of coolies from the Madras Presidency to the Tea districts of Bengal, Act V of 1866 was passed, applying to emigration between the two Presidencies, the principles of the law which regulates emigration to the Colonies, and the Protector of Emigrants was appointed Protector of Labourers.

French emigration.

380. No vessels left Madras for the French Colonies during the past year; but simultaneously with the cessation of emigration from English ports for the British Colonies, emigration from French ports increased, numbers of persons being registered at Madras, and proceeding by land to Pondicherry for embarkation. The following statement shews the departures during the past three years:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| In | 1864-65... ... ... ... | 2,351 persons. |
| „ | 1865-66... ... ... ... | 2,155 „ |
| „ | 1866-67... ... ... ... | 10,198 „ |

Of those embarked during the past year, 6,097 went from Pondicherry, 2,817 from Karikal, and 1,284 from Yanam; the statement appended shews the several Colonies to which the emigrants were respectively bound:—

|---|---|
| Reunion ... ... ... ... | 2,477 |
| Guadaloupe ... ... ... ... | 3,889 |
| Martinique ... ... ... ... | 2,595 |
| Cayenne ... ... ... ... | 1,239 |

Vessels employed.

381. Many English ships were employed in conveying the emigrants to French Settlements; only one accident occurred, happily unattended with loss of life; the "Belgravia," with 184 emigrants on board for Reunion, ran ashore on her way from Pondicherry to Cocanada, and became a total wreck. The emigrants were safely landed and re-embarked for their destination.

Malpractices.

382. The discovery of a system of fraud, by which emigrants were deprived by the maistries or recruiters of the advances made to them, has engaged the attention of the French Government and British Consular Agent, and strenuous efforts are being made to prevent its recurrence.

Proportion of sexes.

383. The proportion of women to men embarked for the French Colonies was as follows:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| To | Reunion ... ... ... ... | 31 per cent; or 31 women |
| „ | Guadaloupe ... ... ... | 33 to every 100 men. |
| „ | Martinique ... ... ... | 33 |
| „ | Cayenne ... ... ... | 33 |

EMIGRATION.

384. No emigrants returned from the West India Isles. From Reunion 356 returned; and from Pondicherry to Mauritius eleven.

Return emigrants.

385. The number of recruiters' licenses issued during the year was 125.

Licenses.

Receipts and Disbursements.

386. The receipts, not including fees levied on registration at Bangalore, and in South Arcot, amounted to Rupees 13,111-12-0; the expenditure to Rupees 12,985-9-0.

PRESIDENCY MUNICIPALITY.

Receipts.

387. The income of the Commissioners for the year amounted to Rupees 4,87,550: the principal items of income being assessment Rupees 2,22,187, other taxes Rupees 1,36,791, grant from Government for maintenance of roads Rupees 26,007, and rents and fees Rupees 34,081. The working of the tax on arts, trades, and professions was not satisfactory, the receipts under this head amounting to Rupees 19,839-8-0 only, against an estimate of Rupees 1,50,000, and an estimate of Rupees 1,87,000. The collections from tolls also fell below the estimate. The delay in the realization of the municipal taxes has been noticed by the Government, and the Municipal Commissioners are actively engaged in the collection of arrears.

Expenditure.

388. The disbursements under all heads amounted to Rupees 4,54,433-4-1. The expenditure on conservancy amounted to Rupees 92,412, or deducting the proceeds of sales of rubbish, to Rupees 88,079, against Rupees 74,406, expended for the same purpose in the previous year. In the item of salaries there has been an increase of Rupees 23,738, consequent on two additional departments of trade tax and tolls, increased allowance to the Commissioners, and other departmental expenses. Rupees 29,780 were expended on the construction, repair, and improvement of works, and Rupees 40,941 on repair and maintenance of Government roads. During the year 100 drains were either newly built, or rebuilt, altered, and improved at a cost of Rupees 26,123.

A detailed statement of receipts and disbursements will be found in the Appendix.

New Municipal Act.

389. A revised Act, to supersede Act IX of 1865, was in July 1867, submitted for the sanction of the Governor General in Council.

The objects of the Act are to increase the municipal revenues, so as to enable the municipality to raise loans for the execution of important public works of drainage and water supply. The Municipal Corporation is, under the provisions of the Act, considerably enlarged, and larger powers are given to the President of the Municipal Commission, with a view of securing more efficient administration.

PRESIDENCY MUNICIPALITY.

Provision has also been made for a systematic registration of births and deaths, and for taking a census.

ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

Extent and organization of the Madras Division.

390. The Madras Division, as at present constituted, extending from Thanikar Point (Island of Rameshvaram) to Masulipatam, and from Bezwarrah to Hyderabad, in the Deccan, comprises 875 miles of line and ten offices. The lines and offices are apportioned among five sub-divisions as follows :—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st. | Hyderabad to Bezwarrah ... ... ... | 169 miles. |
| 2nd. | Masulipatam to Ongole ... ... ... | 132 „ |
| 3rd. | Ongole to Madras ... ... ... ... | 184 „ |
| 4th. | Madras to Negapatam: Madras to St. Thomas' Mount, Pondicherry, Cuddalore, Karikal, and Negapatam ... ... ... ... ... | 206 „ |
| 5th. | Negapatam to Thanikar Point (Paumben Office) | 184 „ |

Staff.

391. Mr. Superintendent B. C. Bailey is now in charge of the Division, having received charge from Mr. Blissett on the 1st February 1867.

Changes.

392. No addition has been made to the extent of lines; two Signal Offices, one at Poodoocottah the other at Ongole, were closed in March 1866.

Interruptions.

393. During the eleven months under review, there were sixty-six cases of total interruption, and five of imperfect communication; of these, forty occurred on the Hyderabad and Bezwarrah line; the principal causes of interruption were the falling of old posts, the failure of the underground line near Hyderabad, and the operations of working parties; the line between Hyderabad and Bezwarrah has been under reconstruction, and will, it is hoped, shortly be brought into good working order. On the lines between Bezwarrah and Masulipatam, between Madras and the Mount, Cuddalore and Karikal, Karikal and Negapatam, there were no interruptions.

General.

394. The working of the department appears generally to have improved, and complaints on the part of the public are not frequent.

The discovery of a considerable deficiency in the cash chest in the Madras Signal Office, in October 1866, led to the prosecution of a receiving clerk: the evidence adduced failed to secure a conviction, but brought to light great irregularities, and want of supervision in the working of the office. These irregularities have been remedied, and an improved system of check introduced. Statements of receipts and expenditure, and of the number of messages transmitted, are not available, as all accounts are now submitted to Calcutta direct, where a statement of accounts for the whole department will, it is understood, be prepared in the Director General's Office. ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.

OBSERVATORY.

395. Satisfactory and steady progress has been made in the labours of the establishment during the year under review. The building operations, which have been in hand for the last five years, are now nearly completed, and the new instruments, recently supplied, are in fair working order and regular use. The labours of the Astronomer are, however, much retarded by the insufficiency of his establishment, and want of European assistance. Progress.

396. The Meridian Circle continues to yield satisfactory results. The error which was mentioned in the Administration Report for 1865-66, as having been discovered towards the close of that year, and as having caused a considerable and apparently inexplicable discordance in the observations of polar distance, was speedily discovered and remedied, and since then the instrument has been kept in excellent working order. Meridian Circle, and observations made therewith.

The working list of the Meridional department comprises chiefly Southern Stars, between 110° and 150° of North Polar distance, not previously observed elsewhere, and specially selected as zero points for the Southern celestial survey; comparison stars, used for past and current equatoreal observations of planets and comets; variable stars; minor planets; the moon and moon-culminating stars, whenever the moon passes the meridian between 7 P. M. and 3 A. M. local time; and the usual Nautical Almanac or standard stars, for the determination of the necessary clock and instrumental corrections.

The number of observations made during the eleven months under review was 2,211, bringing up the total to 11,829. The moon was observed on forty-seven occasions. Forty-one observations were recorded of sixteen minor stars, and thirty-one of the planet Mars, at his opposition in January and February last. The strength of the establishment, as at present constituted, does not admit of the desirable formation and publication of the annual results in the shape of Star Catalogues, the most that can at present be done is to take, and reduce, the observations.

OBSERVATORY.

Extra-Meridional instruments.

397. The two fine Equatoreals are in fair working order. Considerable progress has been made with the Variable Star Atlas, which has been pushed forward as the most pressing extra-meridional pursuit; the Southern celestial survey remains in abeyance pending the publication of the former work.

Comparisons of variable stars have been maintained, and twenty-two observations have been made of seven of the minor planets, regard being had to those only which by reason of their new discovery, extreme faintness, or low southern position, could not have been observed in England.

New discoveries.

398. The discovery of the eighty-ninth minor planet, "Sylvia," was made on the 16th May 1866. The planet was extremely faint, appearing as a star of the twelfth magnitude only, but was nevertheless brighter than many of the older members of the same celestial family. The calculation of its orbit has been made by Professor Peters of Altona, which proves it to be the most distant from the sun of the ninety-two known asteroids.

The first observation with the new telescope was directed to the planet "Sylvia" on the 2nd June 1866, and was followed up for forty-six days; the planet would have been visible some weeks later but for cloudy weather. The next opposition is calculated to occur about the end of July 1867.

The detection of a new and interesting variable star is due to the first Native Assistant, C. Ragonatha Charry. This star was first observed with the meridional circle on the 9th February 1864 as an ordinary star of eight and a half magnitude; but when next visible, in January 1866, must have been under the twelfth magnitude. It was, however, re-observed on the 16th January 1867, and its variability thereby proved. Subsequent comparisons made on twenty-six nights by the same Assistant, shewed that it had obtained a maximum brilliancy of seven and three-quarter magnitude, and that its period of variation, or interval between two successive maxima, is most probably about nine months.

Meteorology.

399. The meteorological records have been maintained in the usual form, and the daily and half-monthly results published in the "Fort St. George Gazette" and local newspapers.

A proposal for recording meteorological observations throughout the Presidency, made in the first instance by Sir William Denison in 1862, revived by the Astronomer in March 1866, and subsequently urged upon the notice of Government by the Sanitary Commission, has received the requisite sanction, and is now being carried out on an efficient scale. Seventeen stations will be supplied with superior instruments, which will all be duly tested by the Astronomer previous to issue, in order to ensure the results being strictly comparable with those of the Madras Observatory. OBSERVATORY.

The stations selected in the interior are Kamptee, Secunderabad, Kurnool, Bellary, Bangalore, Salem, Wellington, Coimbatore, Trichinopoly, Madura, and Tinnevelly. The coast line includes Cannanore, Cochin, Negapatam, Madras, Masulipatam, and Vizagapatam, as well as Rangoon.

400. Records have been made three times daily, as formerly, with the old instruments, which have been in use since 1841; the records await reduction. Observations with the Dip Circle have been taken weekly, and those of Deflection, with an independent Declination Magnetometer, for the determination of the absolute intensity, at the commencement of each month. The remaining portion of the twenty years' series of hourly Magnetic Observations is nearly ready for the press, and will be proceeded with as rapidly as more pressing duties will permit. Magnetism.

401. Copies of the Rain Reports from 216 of the Revenue Board stations have been regularly forwarded to the Observatory. Closing accounts with December 31st, 1866, it is intended as early as possible to deduce the mean annual and half-monthly rainfall for each station, where the records have been kept with ordinary care and intelligence. Rain Returns.

New rain gauges, with accurately turned rims, are to be issued; four hundred are nearly ready, awaiting the arrival of a supply of glass measures from England.

402. The Madras mean time of the flash of the 8 P.M. gun has been noted and published daily, to facilitate the rating of chronometers on board ships in the roads. Telegraphic discharge of the noon and evening guns at Fort St. George and St. Thomas' Mount, and the establishment of public electrical clocks, controlled by a normal regulator in the Observatory, has long been sanctioned, and will, it is hoped, be ultimately effected, as soon as the Astronomer can spare time from his other and more important duties. Time Signals.

403. The expediency of maintaining the Madras Observatory in its present condition, or of amalgamating it with that of Bombay, has been mooted by the Secretary of State for India, during the year under review. This question, which has received the serious consideration of Government, has been made the subject of communication with the Government of India, and is still under consideration. Proposed change.

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL MUSEUM.

Additions to the collection.

404. The total number of specimens added to the collection during the past year is 8,920, of which the following are the most important.

Birds.

405. A very fine collection, consisting of 322 birds of the Himalayas and North West Provinces, presented by Allan Hume, Esq., C.B., Collector and Magistrate of Etawah, to whose liberality the Museum is deeply indebted; sixty-three American birds from the Chicago Museum in exchange for Madras birds; fifty birds, chiefly American, mounted on stands, from the Derby Museum, Liverpool; and 484 birds purchased and prepared at the Museum.

Reptiles.

406. Captain R. H. Beddome, of the Forest Department, as usual, has been the chief contributor of reptiles; twenty-three snakes, of which some are new to science, have been contributed by him during the year.

Fish.

407. R. H. P. Carter, Esq., of the Madras Railway, has contributed twenty-seven fish from the rivers in Coimbatore, and 119 have been purchased.

A small collection of stuffed fish, forty-three in number, has been sent to the Paris Exhibition. This collection, with the exception of a new Mesoprion, has been placed at the disposal of His Majesty the Emperor of France, on the conclusion of the Exhibition. The new fish has been given to the British Museum.

Insects.

408. 1,414 Insects have been contributed by Miss S. Mitchell, of which a large number are from the country between Cuddapah and Kurnool. F. Moore, Esq., of the India House Museum, has presented 134 samples of the Lepidoptera of Europe. A collection, containing 4,447 samples of British Coleoptera, was purchased in London for £15, and upwards of 700 samples of British and other Lepidoptera were obtained by exchange. An engagement has been entered into for the purchase of about 7,000 European Coleoptera, to be delivered and paid for within the next two years, at a cost of about £100.

Crustacea.

409. Thirty-five specimens of crustacea have been added, to the collection.

Mollusca.

410. 463 Shells have been added, of which 340 were presented by Captain R. H. Beddome, fifty-four by Miss S. Mitchell, and forty by W. T. Blanford, Esq. The additions, though not very large, are valuable, as they include several new or rare shells.

MUSEUM.

Skeletons.

411. A few additions have been made to the skeletons in the collection.

Herbarium.

412. The Herbarium of the Forest Department, with its keeper, was transferred to the Museum on 15th August 1866. The number of specimens is considerable, but as a large proportion has yet to be mounted and arranged, the total number cannot at present be stated.

Coins and medals.

413. Twenty-five gold, forty-nine silver, and two copper coins, and three gold, twenty-five silver, and three bronze medals have been added to the collection during the year.

Books.

414. The Library has been increased by the addition of fifty-seven volumes of standard works, and ninety-four parts or numbers of scientific periodicals and Transactions of Societies. Ninety volumes, chiefly Reports, have been received from Government, and 4,030 numbers of the Patent office publications have been added to those previously in the library.

Catalogues.

415. A Descriptive catalogue of Rock specimens in the Lithological collection, and a catalogue of the Indian Geographical collection of Rocks in the Museum, prepared by W. King, Esq., of the Geological Survey, and a catalogue of the Mollusca, prepared by the Superintendent, have been published. A catalogue of books in the Museum Library will shortly be ready for the press.

Visitors.

416. The number of Visitors during the year was 100,943, being nearly 23,000 more than visited the Museum during the previous year.

Local Museum at Rajahmundry.

Visitors.

417. Between the 1st May 1866 and the 30th April 1867, 11,386 persons visited the Museum; during the previous year, the number of visitors was 7,070.

Additions to collection.

418. Several additions have been made to the collection, and a Microscope, Telescope, and models of engines have been ordered from England.

Receipts.

419. The receipts amounted to Rupees 2,406, and the disbursements to Rupees 749, leaving a considerable balance in the hands of the Committee of Management.

MEMORANDUM ON THE SCARCITY AND DROUGHT OF 1866-67.

The scarcity in Ganjam, which culminated in famine at the beginning of the year 1866-67, commenced with the partial failure of the harvests in 1864. The people were then prosperous, and the pressure of want was not severe, but when the rains again failed in 1865 throughout the northern division of the district, the poorer classes were at once plunged into deep distress. The price of food, which had been previously exceptionally low, as compared with the rest of the Presidency, rose rapidly one hundred per cent., and for some days in October and November a brief panic closed the markets, and provisions could not be purchased for any sum. Grain, however, found its way into the district, through the sea-ports, in November and December, and though prices continued so high as to place rice beyond the reach of the poorer classes, food was to be had, and could be bought for money.

The first intimation that extraneous help was required, reached Government in November 1865. The prospects of the season were reported to be bad, the usual importation of grain from the Bengal territory on the northern frontier had ceased, the markets were ill-supplied, and the poor were suffering much; still, it was expected that the coming harvest, small as it must be, would supply sufficient produce for home consumption, and as representations to the mercantile communities of Madras and other places were successful in inducing private individuals to throw grain into the district, the Government did not then interfere further than to permit wells to be sunk and tanks dug, at a cost of Rupees 3,080, and to intimate that they were prepared to consider favorably any proposal for finding employment for the poor.

Unfortunately, private enterprize was discouraged by the failure, in a commercial point of view, of these importations. It was found that prices, which were enormous when compared with those but recently prevailing in Ganjam, were not in excess of those ruling at Madras, and the result of the loss which attended the first efforts of merchants to supply the market was to make them hesitate to intervene during the succeeding months, when the distress was greater, and the prices were higher.

In January 1866, the Collector, who had been absent from India on sick leave, returned to the district. He immediately set on foot local subscriptions for the relief of the poor, and addressed Government, suggesting that the pressure on the local markets would be lightened if they would import rice in sufficient quantities to afford rations to the Military and Civil establishments for eight months. He stated that the harvest, which had been lately reaped, was deficient in quantity and quality; that the poor were emigrating and living on wild roots and leaves, and that the river beds and tanks were nearly dry, and the wells fast failing. The Government considered that the proposal to supply the public establishments with grain was open to grave objection on general principles, and that such a course would have no appreciable effect on the markets; but they repeated the assurance of their readiness to give employment to the destitute. A reference to the Geological department shewed that there was no hope of replenishing the supply of water by sinking artesian wells.

In February the Board of Revenue reported that deaths from actual starvation had occurred in Ganjam during the previous month, and that the season reports from nearly all the districts of the Presidency were of the most gloomy character. The failure of the north-east monsoon had been very general. No immediate action was suggested, but the Government directed that Collectors should be instructed to keep the authorities at the Presidency acquainted with the state of the season, and to suggest remedial measures, where necessary, to relieve distress.

Local subscriptions, to the amount of Rupees 3,571, were raised in Ganjam, and the distribution of cooked food to the poorer classes was commenced in the most heavily afflicted parts of the district. Many of the wealthier Zemindars undertook the support of the poor on their estates.

During the month of March, the distress increased. Cholera, small-pox and fever were prevalent. Water was only obtained for men and cattle by digging pits in tank-beds and similar situations. Grain was priced high, but was still procurable in the markets of towns and large villages. The Court of Wards began to establish Relief Houses in the estates which were under their control. The local subscriptions for charitable purposes amounted by the end of the month, to Rupees 4,445.

Light showers of rain fell in April, but water became more and more scarce. The Relief Houses were unable to meet the demands upon them. In the season report it was stated that deaths from starvation had become frequent amongst men and cattle. The Government telegraphed further sanction for relief works, and called on the Collector for detailed information regarding the extent of the scarcity and the alleged deaths from starvation. They informed him that such funds as might be required for the relief of the district would be forthcoming on his application. The local subscriptions amounted by this time to Rupees 5,842. About 1,000 people were being fed at the Collector's Relief Houses, 600 at those established by the Court of Wards, and 4,000 at those kept up by Zemindars.

In May, the Collector reported in reply that in many parts of the district there was "an universal struggle between the poor and starvation, the people grinding tamarind stones and eating roots found in tank beds." 252 deaths from simple starvation had been reported, and 15,435 from cholera and small-pox aggravated by want; 4,101 persons were fed daily at the Relief Houses, but they belonged, for the most part, to the humblest classes, and the Government ryots shewed that they would submit to great extremities patiently rather than receive aid in this form. The rain which had fallen copiously at the beginning of the month had removed the alarming prospect that water might fail, and had encouraged the people to commence agricultural operations. Cases of starvation were becoming still more frequent. Employment on relief works had been given to many, and the estimated extent of this branch of expenditure was Rupees 1,08,000. The Government at once placed Rupees 10,000 in the hands of the Collector, as a contribution towards the Relief Houses, and requested him to state what further special measures were necessary. They cautioned him to restrict the aid of the Relief Houses to such as could not work.

Towards the end of the month, the Collector proceeded to the Beredy estate, north of the Ganjam river, and found that the exhaustion and depression throughout the whole of that part of the country were beyond any thing he had been previously led to believe. The pauper population were dying off at a rate which accelerated daily. The Zemindar of Calicote had been feeding 2,000 people a day, but small-pox and cholera had broken out amongst the crowds who surrounded his house. Immediately a Relief House was opened in the centre of the tract, 300 persons assembled, clamouring for food, many of them evidently in the last stage of starvation. The seed-grain had been consumed, and the people were utterly exhausted. It was clear that even if the crops which had just been sown succeeded, many months of scarcity had still to be endured.

In this month subscriptions to the Relief Funds began to flow in from Madras. By the end of the month Rupees 6,700 had been raised in the district, and Rupees 2,000 outside it.

In June, prices rose forty per cent. The heat was intense. There were 1,324 deaths from cholera, 170 from small-pox, fifty-eight from fever, and 302 from starvation. Water was still scarce, though rain fell at the beginning of the month. In reply to the request for further detailed information, as to the special measures that were needed, the Collector stated that it would be necessary to keep up Relief Houses costing Rupees 6,000 a month, for five months, and that only half this sum could be raised locally; that 1,500 bags of rice must be sent, in order that respectable families, who were dying in their homes rather than resort to the Relief Houses, might be sought out and helped during three months with one meal a day for three persons in each family; and that discretionary power must be given to the local authorities to give employment in relief works.

The Government sanctioned the required expenditure of Rupees 3,000 a month for five months by telegram, despatched 1,500 bags of rice at a cost of Rupees 11,641 by a steamer then in the Roads, and authorized the Collector to spend Rupees 15,000 pending the submission of a detailed scheme of relief works. They also sanctioned a grant of Rupees 4,500 for enlarging tanks. They offered to send up a special Agent to aid the Collector, but this he considered unnecessary. They also applied to the Government of India for a portion of the unexpended balance of the North West Famine Fund, and received in response, a grant of Rupees 20,000 for charitable purposes. The Court of Wards instructed their Agents to prosecute any works of improvement, for which funds were available.

Copious showers fell in July, and the greater part of the dry crops was saved. The health of the people improved; starvation was heard of, but was less frequent; and cattle found sufficient pasture; but it was still necessary to keep up extensive systems of relief.

The Government sanctioned an addition of Rupees 2 a month to the pay of Government servants on certain parts of the district, drawing Rupees 15 a month and less. Rupees 15,000 out of the grant from the Government of India was sent to the district in rice and ragi, and the remainder was placed at the disposal of the Collector. The Governor visited Ganjam in person, with the view of showing sympathy to those who were laboring and suffering, and stimulating the application of remedial measures; 2,000 bags more of rice were sent by the steamer which carried the Governor and his staff. Among the more immediate results of his visit were the consent of the Government of India to the immediate commencement of the Chilka canal, a most useful work, and one which afterwards supplied large numbers of people with employment; and the establishment of temporary Hospitals and Dispensaries.

Meanwhile the distress throughout the Presidency had gone on increasing, and the rains of the south-west monsoon had not been sufficiently copious in the central and eastern districts to make up for the failure of the north-east monsoon. A public meeting was held on the 21st July in Madras, at which a sum of Rupees 20,000 was at once subscribed, and a Famine Relief Committee appointed to direct the distribution of all funds which might be contributed.

G

On the 25th July the Government passed orders on the subject. They observed, that though the accounts from Ganjam were more favorable, the pressure of scarcity of food and want of water and pasturage was severely felt in Bellary, North Arcot, South Arcot, Salem and Coimbatore. They promised to double all subscriptions received by the Famine Relief Committee, and to place the whole sum at their disposal on the understanding that it was to be dispensed in charity to those who were unable to work. They also took measures for affording employment to the able-bodied poor in all the distressed districts, and sent extra Assistants to the Collectors for the superintendence of relief works.

With regard to Ganjam, little more need be said. The condition of the people gradually improved during August and September, and finally became comparatively prosperous. The first crop was cut in November. Relief Houses were still kept open, and in October 11,300 bags more of rice were landed in the district by Government. Relief works afforded employment and a means of subsistence to all who were not engaged in agricultural pursuits, and the Chilka lake canal works, which had been delayed by floods, were commenced in October, the grant for the year being Rupees 60,000. 2,000 bags of seed-grain and liberal advances in money were sanctioned to enable the ryots to cultivate their fields. Large remissions were also granted.

The superficial extent of the area affected by the famine in this district was 2,500 square-miles, and the population 631,929. Rupees 48,153 in addition to portions of the ordinary allotment of Rupees 1,10,215 were expended on relief works during the distress; six Hospitals or Dispensaries were maintained after the Governor had visited Ganjam; nine Relief Houses, exclusive of those opened by the Court of Wards and by Zemindars, were kept up, the monthly expense for each person fed being Rupees 1-8-0. Raw rice was doled out to the more respectable families at a similar cost of Rupees 1-4-0 a head. The expenditure for these charities was met from a sum of Rupees 26,500, contributed from private sources; Rupees 20,000 from the North West Famine Fund; and Rupees 25,000 in coin, and about Rupees 1,18,400 in rice from Government. The total remissions of revenue amounted to Rupees 1,25,405. About Rupees 17,500 was given in coin, and Rupees 28,000 in paddy to enable the ryots to sow their fields. The allowance to servants on small salaries aggregated Rupees 2,029. The introduction of the Municipal and Road Cess Acts was postponed. G. GANJAM.

The deaths from starvation alone during the scarcity are said to have been not less than 10,898.

After the distress was over, it was found that 550 orphans had been left without protectors. The Roman Catholic and Baptist Missionaries took charge of 400, the Government contributing Rupees 975 monthly to their support. The maintenance of the remaining 150 was also undertaken by the State, till such time as they may be able to earn their own subsistence.

Bellary is a district with an area of 11,351 square-miles, and a population, according to the census of Fusly 1274, of 1,221,228. It is situated in the middle of the peninsula, and depends for rain on partial supplies from both monsoons. Up to the year under report no railway had reached its frontier, and communication with the sea coast is difficult. The revision of assessment carried out in 1857-58; the permanent remission of the special assessment on land irrigated from private wells; the abolition of the Moturpha and Veesabuddy; the enfranchisement of Inam land; and, in particular, the immense profits derived from the high prices of cotton and cereals of late years, have added very largely to the resources of the people, so that even when distress was greatest the richer classes were able to contribute nobly to the support of the indigent during the famine, and as soon as sufficient rain fell the district was restored to a state of prosperity with extraordinary rapidity. BELLARY.

The north-east monsoon failed signally in the autumn of 1865; 286,879 acres of land were left waste altogether, and much of that which was cultivated yielded no crop, so that it was ultimately found necessary to grant remissions to the extent of Rupees 1,60,956. Great distress and want of food and forage were felt as early as December 1865, but the first application for extraordinary aid was made by the late Collector in April 1866. He stated that in some places the want of fodder was compelling ryots to move their cattle; that in others disease had broken out; and that in some talooks the people were living on tamarind seeds for want of proper food. Prices were high, but stationary. He asked to be allowed to deepen old wells at the public expense; and the Board called for details, but were afterwards informed in May by the Sub-Collector in charge, (the Collector having died in the interim) that ordinary works were going on; that no further aid of that sort was wanted; and that it would be imprudent to assemble people in large numbers by offering them work, as the supplies of water in the neighbourhood would certainly be insufficient. The distress had then been lessened by a few light showers of rain.

G.
BELLARY.

During the month of May prices began to rise; the want of water was greatly felt; larger numbers were left without proper nourishment; and cattle disease became alarmingly prevalent.

In June light rains fell, but the wind was strong and hot so that they did little good. Cholera and fever became very fatal. Prices continued to rise, and the want of food, water, and grass was more severely felt. A death from starvation was reported, and even the wild produce which had supplied the indigent with casual nourishment began to fail. On receipt of this intelligence, the present Collector, who took charge on the 21st, was directed to report what special measures of alleviation were necessary, and to promote the formation of relief societies, Government promising assistance in grain to the extent of one-third of the amount raised by local exertions.

In July tantalizing showers occurred at intervals, and a fresh came down the Toongabudra, so that in many parts the supplies of water were replenished; but 3,247 cattle died in one talook alone for want of food, and they were every where becoming so weak that a slight matter was enough to cause death. Pasture disappeared altogether. Prices were higher than any where else in the Presidency, and three or four hundred per cent. more than in the famine year of 1854.

The Collector called for local subscriptions, and was well responded to. In Bellary alone a quarter of a measure of grain per man per day was dispensed to 5,000 people. He also proposed to Government a grant of Rupees 50,000 for relief works, which was sanctioned by telegram. A temporary addition of Rupees two a month was made to the pay of officials drawing less than Rupees ten.

It was in this month that the general Famine Relief Committee was established, and the order of Government promising to set on foot relief works wherever they were required, and to double the amounts raised by private charity was issued. Rupees 5,000 were at once sent to Bellary by the Committee.

In August the season continued as bad as ever, and the fear of plunderers and cholera, as well as the fresh on the Toongabudra, prevented supplies from being thrown into the district by the usual channels of trade. Prices rose suddenly twelve per cent. on the 18th, but declined slightly afterwards.

It was calculated that Rupees 2,10,000 out of the local funds were available for famine works, and the Government hoped that this, with the Rupees 50,000 already granted, would be sufficient for the purpose.

G. BELLARY.

The Collector applied for 10,000 Rupees worth of cheap grain, and the Commissary General was directed to forward it, but the want of forage on the road prevented the design from being fully carried out. Ten garce of ragi was, however, sent at a cost, including carriage, of Rupees 7,185, with orders that it should be dispensed as alms in the shape of cooked food. The Collector proposed that Government should supply the Bellary merchants with grain at Moodanur, the nearest railway station, at Rupees 7 a bag, on the condition that it should be retailed by them in the district at cost price, but Government declined to adopt this suggestion. Rupees 12,000 had been raised for the Relief Houses by local subscriptions, and Rupees 14,000 more were sent from Madras for the same object.

In September the prospects of the district began slowly to improve. There was a general though not heavy rainfall, and the famine works and Relief Houses were fully able to meet the necessities of the people. Prices, however, reached their highest point, and on the 17th of the month, only two Madras measures of the "first sort" rice could be bought for a rupee. They afterwards declined.

The Government sanctioned a further expenditure of Rupees 1,50,000 on relief works, and raised the pay of public servants drawing from ten to fifteen rupees by two rupees a month, and of those drawing ten rupees and under by three rupees, or one rupee more than had previously been sanctioned. The Central Relief Committee remitted a sum of Rupees 20,000. The Sanitary Commissioner was directed to proceed to Bellary and Kurnool, to visit the most distressed parts, and to initiate and improve measures for relieving distress, employing the poor, and preserving public health.

During October, rain fell copiously; the prospects of the season became decidedly good; cattle ceased to look emaciated; and agricultural operations were resumed with vigour.

Extensive employment was still afforded to the poor, the Relief Houses were supported by the Famine Relief Committee with a further grant of Rupees 30,000 in money and Rupees 5,000 in grain, and Rupees 20,000 was supplied by Government for seed-grain.

In November, there was sufficient pasture on the ground. Cholera and fever declined. Prices remained stationary in some parts of the district, and fell slightly in others.

The sum which had been granted for relief works having already been expended, Rupees 50,000 more was placed at the Collector's disposal by telegram, and a further advance of one lac of rupees for seed-grain was sanctioned. The Relief Committee contributed a sum of Rupees

G. BELLARY.

20,000 to the Relief Houses. The Collector proposed that Government should lend five lacs of rupees, re-payable, without interest, in eighteen months, for purchasing seed-grain and ploughing bullocks, to all ryots requiring such an advance, whose holdings were assessed at less than Rupees 30, and should suspend the collection of kists until February, when the first crop would have been cut; and in December, the Sanitary Commissioner recommended that liberal remissions should be granted; that the revenue collections should be postponed; that a notification to that effect should at once be published, so as to save the people from the necessity of borrowing at exorbitant interest; and that a loan of five or six lacs of rupees, re-payable in three years, should be granted to the poorest classes of ryots in certain proportions to the assessment of their holdings.

The Board of Revenue recommended that the proposals for postponing the realization of kists, and for granting full remission on all lands where the crops had wholly failed, and partial remission for partial losses at a liberal per-centage should be adopted; but they deprecated the proposal to grant a loan, shewing that if distributed according to the Sanitary Commissioner's scheme, the amount would reach the ryots in driblets, the smallest sums going to the most needy individuals; and arguing that, while the relief would be inadequate to produce any sensibly beneficial effect, the cost would be great; the risk of malversation on the part of the Revenue establishments considerable; and the prospect of demoralization certain.

The Government, agreeing with the Board, postponed the revenue collections until February; gave the Collector discretion to continue the postponement longer in the case of the poorer ryots after that date; and notified that liberal remissions would be granted. But before finally deciding against the loan, they called on the Board for the latest intelligence, and asked whether any modified measures could be devised by them to aid the ryots in retrieving their losses. They threw out, as a suggestion for the consideration of the Board, that it might be desirable to grant loans, re-payable with light interest in five or six years, for sinking wells; and they made a further grant of Rupees 1,50,000 for relief works.

In January 1867, the Board reported that the suggestion of a loan for sinking wells was impracticable, on account of the peculiar characteristics of the district, and added that the prosperity of the district was comparatively restored; that the breadth of land under cultivation was within one per cent. of what it was in January 1866; that the Collector, after a three months' tour, believed that the exigencies of the district had been fully provided for, and that the district would soon recover. The proposal to grant loans was then abandoned.

In the course of this month, the Central Committee made their last grant, Rupees 10,000.

The season continued favourable, the markets were well supplied, and prices fell rapidly. Fresh grants of Rupees 1,50,000 in December, and of Rupees 50,000 in May, were sanctioned for relief works. The Relief Houses were gradually closed in February and March. Relief works were also generally discontinued.

On the 26th March, the Collector reported that the ordinary extent of cultivation had been reached; that the ryots sought for no further advances; and that the experience of the last three months shewed him, that there was no need of a loan to re-place cattle.

The official returns from the taluks recorded 192 deaths from starvation during the famine; but further inquiries go to shew that they were more probably about 1,000 in number. In August, the average mortality of the district from all causes was at the rate of 121·2 per 1,000 per annum, and in one month the death-rate in some parts was as high as 370·8 per 1,000 per annum. The loss of cattle was very great. It is supposed that one-fifth of the whole stock perished during the drought.

The sum raised locally for Relief Houses during the distress amounted to Rupees 47,430. The Central Committee contributed Rupees 84,000; and a small quantity of grain and ragi, costing Rupees 4,480, was supplied by Government.

The largest number of Relief Houses open at one time was 244; the maximum number of persons fed daily about 32,300, and the average cost of feeding them Rupees 2 a head per mensem. About Rupees 4,50,000 were expended by Government on relief works, and the maximum number of labourers employed upon them was about 20,000.

OTHER DISTRICTS.

The distress in the other districts of the Presidency was caused by the serious failure of the south-west monsoon, following an unfavorable season. The details which have been given, with regard to Ganjam and Bellary, indicate the manner in which the emergency was met, and it will be sufficient to give a list of the sums expended in each district in addition to Local Funds and Public Works allotments, on account of works specially undertaken in order to supply the means of earning subsistence.

FAMINE RELIEF FUND COMMITTEE.

Relief Houses were established, wherever they were required, by local Committees directed by the Central Famine Relief Fund Committee at Madras. The Government contribution towards this charity amounted to Rupees 1,30,000. Upwards of a lac was received from private subscriptions in Madras, and about a lac and a half elsewhere, so that the sum at the disposal of the Committee must have amounted to Rupees 3,80,000.

In October, the Committee reported that the change which had taken place in the season, would enable them soon to reduce the number of Relief Houses; and by February 1867, the season had become favorable throughout the whole Presidency, with the exception of one taluk in the district of Madura, where the distress continued some months longer.

Statement shewing the Wrecks which have occurred at various Ports under this Presidency during the year 1866-67.

| Date of Wreck. | Name of Vessel. | Tons. | REMARKS. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7th June 1866 ... | Brig "Syed Ibrahim Bux." | 47 | This brig while prosecuting her voyage from Colombo to Manaar and Jaffna in a gale of wind was driven on the Manalli reef near Paumben, and became a total wreck. The crew escaped to the shore safely; the cargo was partly saved. |
| 5th Sept. 1866 ... | Iron Ship "Rajpoot" ... | 1,333 | She was bound from London to Calcutta with passengers, and a cargo of the value of £130,000. Her reckoning being out, she ran ashore near Narsapore about 2 A. M. The passengers and crew met with no accident, and the cargo was all saved except a few tons which were thrown overboard. She has since been floated. A formal inquiry was instituted, when the Commander was reprimanded and the Chief Officer recommended to suspension of certificate for six months; neither of which sentences was confirmed owing to an irregularity in the finding. |
| 2nd October 1866. | Ship "Belgravia" ... ... | 893 | Having shipped at Pondicherry 184 emigrants for Réunion, she left for Cocanada to receive an additional number from Yanam, but on her way to that port was stranded on the reef off Bendamoorlunka about 2 A. M. An inquiry was ordered, and the Commander sentenced to suspension of certificate for six months, but the sentence was not confirmed on account of informality. It was fine weather, and the crew and coolies were safely landed. |
| 22nd Dec. 1866 ... | Ship "Monitor" ... ... | 515 | This vessel was wrecked on the Tangacherry reef off Quilon while proceeding from Singapore to Bombay. She was hugging the shore without attending to the lead. The crew were saved, the weather being fine, but the cargo was partly lost. |
| 3rd January 1867. | Ship "Glenforth" ... ... | 732 $\frac{88}{100}$ | Was anchored at the port of Negapatam discharging her cargo when she sprung a dangerous leak, and finding it difficult to keep her afloat, she was beached. No inquiry was necessary. |
| 21st Feb. 1867 ... | Brig "Sahool Hamed ... | 157 | Foundered at Bimlipatam Roads with a full cargo of grain valued at Rupees 17,418, probably from the starting of a butt-end. She commenced suddenly at night making water and filled so fast that in an hour she sank. The crew made to the shore safely. |

N. B.—In all cases the Colleges and Normal Schools have been taken as single Institutions. The number of Female Schools is considerably less than the number for last year. This arises from better means being available than on former occasions for separating purely Girls' Schools from schools with a mixed attendance of boys and girls. Beside the 75 schools for females alone, there are 128 schools with a mixed attendance, the girls therein numbering 1,213.
